India Ready To Fight

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru said today that India would go to war if necessary to end "Chinese aggression" on Indian territory.

He told legislators that if the Chinese Communists move across the line dividing India from Tibet "we shall resist and repel them."

He made the statement after reporting that the Chinese Communists in a Dec. 2 letter threatened to send troops into India's northeast frontier area.

Nehru said the Chinese rejected Indian charges of new Chinese incursions into Indian territory which were contained in an October letter from India to Communist China.

Saying India would if necessary go to war to stop Chinese aggression, Nehru told the house: "I do not rule out war. How can I?"

He added India would prefer peaceful means, but also had to consider other methods "short of war" and then war itself.

"My whole soul reacts against war," he said.

'WE SHALL RESIST'

Asked what India would do if the Chinese Communists moved across the line which divides India from Communist-controlled Tibet, he replied:

"Obviously, if that is what is done, we shall resist and repel them."

He said that the Chinese in their reply to India's October note counter-charged that India had increased military activities in the border areas, established new checkpoints, permitted Indian planes to violate Chinese air space and ordered Chinese patrols not to come within about 12½ miles of the Chinese side of the border.

He said the Chinese letter contained "a hint that if our military activities continue they may have to take steps for defence by sending some troops across the McMahon line."

GOA PROTEST

Meanwhile, the Indian government charged Portugal with "aggressive manoeuvres" on the frontier of the Portuguese enclave of Goa.

A spokesman for the external affairs ministry said Indian troops were ordered to "areas threatened by aggressive manoeuvres" of Portuguese forces as a precautionary measure. He said Portugal had concentrated troops "to overawe and intimidate residents of Goa and their compatriots across the border."

An influential Indian newspaper said the "situation may well arise" soon in which Indian troops will attempt to oust the Portuguese from the Goa enclave.

Adlai Won't Run

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Adlai Stevenson announced today that he will not run for the U.S. Senate next year.

PHONE ROBOTS WENT ON AND ON

LONDON (CP)—Two telephone robots talked to each other for hours recently without coming to any understanding.

It all began, says the general post office's monthly, The Telephonist, when an electricity substation "somewhere in the provinces" broke down.

The first robot's job when this happens is to dial operator and say: "There is a fault at this power station. Please send repair men."

When the fault developed, the robot alertly dialed O for operator. Nobody had told him the operator's number had been changed to 100.

So all he got was the second robot saying: "You no longer dial O for operator. Please replace your receiver and dial 100."

"For all I know they went on and on like that for hours," said The Telephonist's editor.

"Like statesmen at a peace conference—and with about the same effect."

New Fighting in Katanga Flares Against UN Forces

Citizens Flee Capital in Panic

ELISABETHVILLE — Widespread fighting broke out between United Nations forces and Katanga Province troops in this Congo city today and many people fled the city in panic.

Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba, ranking Katanga official in the absence of President Moise Tshombe, charged the UN started the shooting and declared, "Katanga will fight and defend itself."

Kimba listed nine wounded so far on Katanga's side but said he did not know the extent of UN casualties.

The UN said two white mercenaries were killed by Indian troops in dispersing a Katanga force found lying in ambush outside headquarters of the United Nations. There were other casualties on both sides, the UN said.

The sound of mortar and other firing from several directions started a panic exodus from this capital of the secessionist province.

Contrary to UN reports that all Katangan ministers also had fled, Kimba held a press conference with all ministers present.

Just before shooting started, Brian Urquhart, special UN political adviser, charged a Katanga battle plan for a sneak attack had been uncovered and that fighting was inevitable.

Urquhart said Katanga troops had been discovered advancing through thick brush toward the UN-held airport. He charged this was a "final act of bad faith."

It was announced in Leopoldville, the central Congo capital, that Acting UN Secretary-General U Thant has given Sture Linner, the UN Congo chief, a "carte blanche" to deal with the situation in Katanga.

Kimba told his press conference "United Nations troops opened fire at 1.45 p.m. with heavy weapons against the lightly armed Katanga army."

Panic broke out in the streets. Some Negroes ran from the town. Others headed for the railroad station.

Auto drivers earplugged through the streets sounding their horns.

Heavy shooting could be heard from outside the telegraph office. Teletype operators fled and foreign newspapermen had to type out their own dispatches.

Throughout the morning heavily armed crack Katangan troops had toured Elisabethville in armored vehicles.

There are four UN strongpoints in the area: The airport, where UN troops are firmly dug in; the UN headquarters, which is also the Indian camp; the Swedish camp and the Lido Hotel.

REINFORCEMENTS

It was believed that 300 additional Swedish troops arrived here Monday night. They were originally to be reinforcements for Swedish troops due for rotation but now those due to pull out will be kept on.

The firing later stopped and Elisabethville showed signs of slowly coming back to life again after the first shock of the afternoon fighting.

Kimba said: "Unless the United Nations modify immediately its attitude toward Katanga, we will consider ourselves in a state of war."

Jets Rushed Into Battle

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Acting Secretary-General U Thant today ordered jet planes flown into Elisabethville for use in support of United Nations forces in the strife-torn capital of the Congo's secessionist Katanga province.

A UN spokesman said the jets would be used to "support ground action by the UN troops, and to destroy any aircraft that take hostile action against UN positions."

The spokesman said this was in line with U Thant's directive to UN forces to take what action they deemed fit to restore order.

Brig. K. A. S. Raja, an Indian, has been ordered by U Thant to take over control from UN civilian officials in Elisabethville, thus putting the United Nations on a virtual war footing.

JFK to Visit S. America

WASHINGTON (AP)—President John F. Kennedy will visit Venezuela and Colombia Dec. 16-17 to dramatize his Alliance for Progress program for social and economic development of the Western Hemisphere.

The White House announced the trip—long expected—and said that Kennedy "hopes to visit other parts of Latin America in the future."

Economic Upturn To Continue

PARIS (AP)—Canada's economic upturn is expected to continue despite efforts to reduce imports of capital from abroad, according to a report released today by the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development.

The report, on the second of 20 economic surveys on OECD countries planned over the next nine months, said the strong business recovery in the United States should have a major influence on Canada.

Employment and exports should rise, the balance of trade should continue to improve, and the decline in the exchange rate of the Canadian dollar should continue to have a favorable influence, by making it less costly on the international market, the report said.

Kennedy Invited To Moscow?

ROME (Reuters)—The pro-Communist Rome newspaper Paese Sera reports from London that Soviet Premier Khrushchev has invited President Kennedy to Moscow.

The newspaper says the American president wanted to meet British Prime Minister Macmillan before giving a definite reply to the Soviet premier's invitation.

The newspaper's London correspondent says: "This is the significance of Monday night's sudden announcement" that the American and British leaders will meet in Bermuda later this month. (See story, page 5.)

Khrushchev's invitation was reported passed on to Kennedy by Alexei Adzhubei, Khrushchev's son-in-law and editor of the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia, who interviewed him last month.

U.S. Dams Asked on Columbia

PORTLAND (AP)—Bonneville Power Administrator Charles F. Luce said today the next Congress should authorize a new set of federal dams for the Columbia Basin.

The need is urgent, he said, and will be especially so should Canada fail to ratify the treaty for Columbia River development.

If the treaty is not authorized, he told a meeting of Portland-area customers of Bonneville, alternatives must be authorized at once to take up the slack. Luce said Pacific northwest power needs will double in the next 10 years, meaning "We have to add as much generation in the next 10 years as we have in the past 70."

He said that although the House in the last Congress rejected power generating installation in the new reactor at the Hanford works, the Bonneville administration will continue a push to get it. He said he did not know just what kind of effort would be made but "We hope to find a combination that will make it go."

Orphan Boys Taken From Protestants

MONTREAL (CP)—Two Roman Catholic teenaged orphan boys, placed with non-Catholic families last September, have been ordered to return to the care of the Quebec government's social welfare branch here.

Steve Catinoglu, 16, and his 14-year-old brother Michel were placed separately in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Francois Ligetti and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dubois.

The families were notified Monday by Real Bastian, head of the provincial social welfare branch here, that the boys were being recalled. He said the Social Welfare Act prevents the placing of children with families of a different religion.

The action came in the wake of an Ontario case where the court ruled that a non-Catholic couple did not have to give up a Roman Catholic youngster they had raised almost from infancy.

KENORA, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Bertha Loranger and three of her children died while they slept when their house 10 miles north of here went up in flames early today.

They Refuse To Deal With Refuse

City public works committee today daintily disposed of a garbage problem sent to it by city parks committee—by shoving it into the wastebasket.

The problem involves residents of outside areas, where there is no civic collection, bringing their kitchen garbage into the city in neatly wrapped bundles and depositing them in street litter bins.

Parks committee, at the suggestion of Ald. Mrs. L. E. Wilson, asked public works committee to study the possibility of banning the practice through a bylaw and "prosecuting offenders."

Public works committee bogged at the thought of police being "staked out" around city trash cans to pinch the "garbage-leggers."

"If we made a bylaw stopping people from putting garbage in trash bins, we would be come the laughing stock of the country," warned Ald. Michael Griffin.

"It would be pretty difficult to identify whether an offender came from Oak Bay, Saanich or Esquimalt," pointed out Ald. J. L. W. McLean. "Anyway it's better that they put garbage in the cans than litter up the streets."

"Not if his parcel of garbage was stamped by the customs men at the city border," quipped city engineer J. C. Garnett.

The idea was scrapped by a vote of laughter.

BEWARE GARBAGE-LEGGERS

Border-crossing garbage dumpers are causing concern in city council, but it appears nothing much can be done about non-residents who sneak up on

"keep city clean" cans and fill them with household disposables. Posing Times photo suggests disguise might be used by offenders.

Russ Says U.S. Stirs Trouble

Vote Loser Won't Quit

MANILA (UPI)—President Carlos P. Garcia ignored an appeal today, by a ranking member of his own Nationalist party that he concede defeat in the recent Philippine presidential election.

The appeal was made by Rep. Emilio Cortez to "ease political tension" in the Philippines. It called on Garcia to admit defeat to President-elect Diosdado Macapagal, who won over Garcia by more than 600,000 votes.

parallel appeal for used warm clothing.

Mrs. Eric Dowell and her work group at 1117 Wharf planned on sending their first shipment to the Unitarian Service Committee in January but their plans were changed.

LEFT MONDAY

Since the drive opened Nov. 20, over 1,000 pounds of clothing has been sent in and the first shipment left Victoria Monday.

Mrs. Dowell said clothing should be warm "because their winter is just starting" and should have at least six months' wear left.

Mrs. Dowell had a word for the ladies. Don't send in your shoes, women in Korea and India have much wider feet. Infants' children and men's shoes, however are more than welcome.

Tshombe Calls Ex-UN Official 'Criminal'

(Times News Service)
President Moise Tshombe of Katanga, on his way to a Re-Armament conference in Brazzaville, says Ireland's Conor Cruise O'Brien is a "criminal" who should be prosecuted for his Congo policies.

O'Brien, the resigned United Nations chief in the secessionist Congo province, accused the British government and British "gutter millionaires" of sabotaging UN efforts in the Congo by encouraging the

Tshombe and O'Brien held press conferences in different parts of the world Monday. Tshombe met the press in Paris, where he is stopping for a couple of days on his way to Brazzaville while O'Brien spoke in New York.

Tshombe showed open contempt for O'Brien, who also quit the Republic of Ireland's foreign service after 19 years. "I rejoice that he has quit," Tshombe said.

O'Brien blamed pressure brought by Britain and France for his resignation. Both countries have denied they used such pressure.

O'Brien also is ending his 22-year marriage to wed the daughter of Irish Deputy Prime Minister Sean MacEntee.

O'Brien announced his plans to divorce the mother of his three children Monday, charging that the British "gutter press" had harped on his relationship with Miss Marie MacEntee, 38, "to deflect attention from the Katanga situation."

O'Brien is 44.

Miss MacEntee is a lawyer, poet and specialist in Celtic studies. She worked with O'Brien as a member of the Irish delegation at the United Nations. Friends said the couple shared a love of literature and a faith in the future of the UN.

Recently Miss MacEntee has been Ireland's representative on the Council of Europe in Strasbourg. She resigned from the Irish civil service almost immediately after O'Brien resigned from Ireland's diplomatic corps.

Tshombe said O'Brien was a

"criminal" who "should be brought before a tribunal because of the many deaths on his conscience" as a result of UN action in Katanga.

O'Brien declined to go into details on the pressure he said Britain and France used at the UN. He said he would clear up a number of points in a book he plans to write on his Congo experiences.

"Britain," he said, "has been steadfastly in favor of secession of Katanga until it becomes definitely recognized de facto (in fact) as independent."

Britain says its policy in the Congo is aimed at conciliating Tshombe and the central Congolese government. British spokesmen have claimed O'Brien was an obstacle to reconciliation in the Congo.

O'Brien disputed the British approach. "By conciliation they mean giving Tshombe time to consolidate his forces," he said, characterizing this as a policy of "Pecksniff in the UN and Gradgrind in Katanga."

This was reference to two Dickens characters representing, respectively, kow-towing hypocrisy and narrow commercialism.

Red China UN Issue Warms Up

UNITED NATIONS (CP)

A concerted Afro-Asian attack on the United States attempt to bar Communist China from the United Nations built up steam today as the General Assembly buckled down to a long, stormy debate on the issue.

Ceylon, one of 17 Afro-Asian countries which has diplomatic relations with Peking, launched the drive Monday with one of the sharpest assaults ever made in the UN on Washington's China policy.

Ceylonese Ambassador G. P. Malasekera charged that the United States was building up a "wall of hatred" between the American and Chinese people that could lead to a world war.

He assailed U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson's speech to the assembly, urging the UN to keep the door closed to Red China.

"There are apparently not only two Chinas in American thinking but also two Stevensons," the Ceylonese said. "There is the Stevenson of the brilliant premises, and alas, to my disappointment, the Stevenson of the same old conclusions."

ISSUES WARNING
Communist China, warned Malasekera, will soon become a nuclear power.

"When that day comes," he said, "the United States will be confronted by two mighty nuclear powers, and that two-front war which was America's nightmare in the Second World War will re-emerge as the double nuclear front of the future."

Delegates anticipated a lot more strong words against U.S. China policy from other Afro-Asian states including India, which for 11 years has led the drive to seat Peking in place of Nationalist China.

With 60 speakers still listed to take part, assembly consideration of the issue is expected to continue until Christmas, dashing any hopes that the assembly session will end before the new year.

WHO NEEDS THAT OLD STORE JOB?

CRAWCOOK, England (AP)—Winning $151,200 in a football pool has cost Bob Grace his job in a grocery store where he worked 40 years.

Grace, who started out as errand boy and became manager of the store, wanted to stay on even as a part-time clerk to "keep in touch with the customers who have all become my friends."

But the owners said no and asked him to resign.

"We were entirely satisfied with Bob's work," said Malcolm McDonald, managing director, "but I had the feeling people in his position would tend rather to please themselves in what they did."

City parks committee Monday endorsed a recommendation that city concession buildings at Hamsterley Beach and Eagle Park be demolished as "unsightly and unsanitary."

Parks administrator Herb Warren and city manager C. C. Wyatt were asked for a report on future handling of concessions including the possibility "of using city employees to run them."

Cafe Refused Service, Charge Senegalese

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The Senegalese delegation said today two of its members were turned away from a New York City restaurant and floor show when they sought twice to pick up reservations previously accepted by telephone.

Ousmane Socé Diop, chief of the delegation, said the incidents have been reported to U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson "for his information."

The assistant manager of the restaurant said he could not recall the first incident but that on the second occasion the party had no reservations, all tables were filled and one of the Senegalese representatives kept insisting in a loud voice that "he was an ambassador and he was from the United Nations and if he didn't get a table, he was going to cause trouble."

The restaurant spokesman denied that his establishment discriminated against negroes at the UN, saying that the night before the incident with the Senegalese, Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko of the Congo had entertained a party of 15 at the place.

Kamloops Jail Jammed

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Kamloops city jail was jammed with prisoners during the weekend with as many as 44 persons at one time crowded into quarters designed to accommodate 12.

RCMP Superintendent J. B. Harris said the arrest of a total of 35 persons between Friday afternoon and Monday morning was the result of "increased police activity."

DUNCAN—The Duncan Kiwanis TB Seal campaign is under way.

Committee chairman Bob Corney reports $2,100 donated, a bit short of the sum gathered at this time last year. In the past four years the Duncan total has topped $4,000.

Both Sides Pull Troops As Berlin Wall Finished

(Times News Service)

BERLIN — A Russian military vehicle was stopped for about an hour by two American military police cars in West Berlin early today, an incident that drew attention to the East-West Berlin border.

The American cars parked in front of and behind the Russian vehicle near the Friedrichstrasse crossing point on the East-West Berlin border.

It was the latest in a series of incidents involving American and Soviet cars in both parts of Berlin. An American spokesman said Monday that three American military police cars were harassed by East Berlin police Sunday night. A Russian car was held up for an hour in the American sector Monday.

The East Germans finished work on new walls and tank obstacles at the checkpoints before nightfall and withdrew hundreds of troops that had guarded the 2,500 workmen.

A platoon of 30 U.S. infantry who had faced several hundred East German soldiers, police and factory militia last June away at the Friedrichstrasse crossing point, were withdrawn after the Reds marched off.

Meantime, West Berlin police reported that an 18-year-old girl and a man aged 21 jumped from the 100-foot high roof of an East Berlin border building into a sheet held by West Berlin firemen in the French sector here today. They were taken to a hospital with bruises.

Royal Couple Visit Ancient African Post

JOWARRA, Gambia (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip arrived today in this tiny trading post which was the first British foothold in West Africa.

The Queen, wearing a pale peach afternoon dress and turban hat, walked with the prince around the trading compound for half an hour. They saw heavy sacks of peanuts—Gambia's principle export—being weighed and donkeys waiting to be loaded.

Earlier, about 4,000 Gambians, mainly Moslems in flowing gowns, had gathered to await the arrival of the royal barge at the post, which has about 30 stone buildings with tin roofs.

'THIS WAS THE ANSWER'

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto insurance executive who had planned to spend $1,000 on a fallout shelter changed his mind and donated the money to the World Federalists of Canada.

Reuben Schafer, 36, said he became "terribly concerned" over the fate of his wife and five children in the event of a nuclear war. He decided to build a shelter. Then he read of the 28 United States families who had donated money to the United Nations instead of building fallout shelters and decided "this was the answer."

Mr. Schafer is a member of the WFC, an organization which promotes the creation of a world government.

CANDIDATES EXPLAIN PLATFORMS

Four Newcomers in Oak Bay Race

Capsule platforms of the eight candidates seeking municipal office in Oak Bay Thursday appear below.

Contesting the reeveship are Reeve George Murdoch, who has held the post for three of his 16 consecutive years on council; Coun. Gordon Elworthy, who has three years' experience on council, and Jack Barracough, a newcomer to municipal affairs.

There are three newcomers in the council race for three seats: Walter Dodsworth, Douglas Gage and William Wade; plus former candidate Norman Pittam—arid Coun. Allan Cox, who hopes to be re-elected.

George Murdoch—radio-TV technician:

Favors open council deliberations to replace lengthy closed sessions to which press and public are not admitted.

He is opposed to any form of metro government or amalgamation, believing co-operation between local governments can best be continued through inter-municipal committee.

Mr. Murdoch would like to see some type of recreation centre or facilities "for the older people."

"We've got lots for the younger ones," he said. But an undertaking of this sort must be economic, or operated by private enterprise without subsidy.

He said a proper system of roads to eliminate bottlenecks and ease traffic flow for Greater Victoria must be developed.

And early in the year Oak Bay must proceed with high-rise apartment development in the university area to start gaining the benefit of taxes, he said.

Jack Barracough—insurance man:

His main plank is for planning that will retain Oak Bay's greatest asset—location and atmosphere in a desirable standard—a "good place to live."

He feels many important decisions must be made within a few years, carefully considered by competent people.

On high-rise apartments he asks: "Are we going to allow them or not? We must choose between paying a little more in taxes or changing the name from Beach Drive to Apartment Row."

He said with more people interested in apartment dwelling, "let's decide where they will be built and have the courage to keep to the decision."

Decision on recreation sites must be based on facts. He favors neighborhood units "where family groups can be encouraged to provide their own answers to problems."

These might be municipally-owned lots which could be used for skating, tennis and roller rinks.

There might also be craft centres enabling group activities substituting for spectator sports and TV.

"There is too much criticism of what young people are doing and not enough suggestions of what they could be doing," he said.

Gordon Elworthy, towing firm executive:

Also favors opening up council's affairs to the public, "on a more businesslike basis."

"Let the taxpayers know what we are contemplating, not present them with a rubberstamp decision in council on matters which may vitally affect their interests."

"Council then gets the benefit of public opinion... a very good guide to municipal government."

His main plank is a recreation centre to provide self-liquidating swimming pool, curling and skating rinks, meeting rooms and branch library, "for old and young."

The candidate wants a study of undeveloped land to lay economic plans for the future.

He favors the committee system of government, underground wiring, removal of school taxes from property, co-operation with other municipalities but not amalgamation, and re-examination of local improvement taxation.

William Wade, provincial civil servant:

"I will support projects I consider to be in the best interests of the majority of taxpayers," he said.

He said he would approach problems with an open mind, without categorical answers to issues.

Norman Pittam, insurance manager:

Seeks to maintain the attractive atmosphere of the community in continued development as a self-contained unit; earmarking open areas for future parks; improved transit; study on a recreation centre, and offsetting tax increases with selected commercial development like the proposed marina.

Allan Cox, barrister:

Stands on his record; opposes amalgamation; favors expediting council business and a greater measure of open discussion; would look at proposed recreation centre with an open mind.

Douglas Gage, realtor:

Would husband tax dollars to ensure Oak Bay remains "the best bargain in B.C." for property owners; favors professional advice on proposed recreation development.

Walter Dodsworth, business manager:

Favors amenities such as a library for Oak Bay, but only if desired by and of benefit to the whole; opposes amalgamation, also favors professional guidance on any community centre project.

ELECTION MEETING TOO EXCLUSIVE?

Stimulating interest in Thursday's election and municipal affairs generally ought to be worth $10 to Oak Bay council, the local ratepayers' association thinks.

The group held an all-candidates meeting in the council chamber last week, to which the public was invited.

A capacity crowd turned out, but most were miffed when told only members of the association could question candidates, a ruling relaxed through pressure from the floor.

Why? "Because we rented the hall," a spokesman said. Monday night council received a letter from D. D. Carter on behalf of the association, asking that the $10 rental be waived.

He said ratepayers resolved unanimously to make the request "in view of the interest we have stimulated."

Coun. J. D. Watts said he thought it would be perfectly in order if the association was willing to hold open meetings, thus doing a public service, but it was unfortunate the chairman opened the meeting by saying only members could ask questions.

Coun. Allan Cox agreed, pointing out that even open the meeting was thrown open, the association "sneaked" a closed session in at the end.

FREEDOM AT CITY HALL

'Insidious Plot' Seen by Wilson

No man can serve two masters, especially in politics, mayoralty candidate R. B. (Dick) Wilson stated Monday.

One of three speakers—all club members—who addressed a Gyro luncheon, Mr. Wilson said the "most vital issue" in the 1961 civic election is the attempt of his opponent, Social Credit MLA Donald Smith, to hold two political posts.

Oak Bay reeveship hopeful Gordon Elworthy and Victoria council aspirant William Hudson also spoke.

"Victoria will have to make one of their most important decisions ever in this election," Mr. Wilson said, "for the aldermen will no longer be free if my opponent is elected."

Mr. Wilson termed the entry of Mr. Smith into the election as "an insidious plot to infiltrate city hall."

CONFLICT OFTEN

He said he believed the interests of the province and the city would conflict often, and when it happened it would be impossible for a person to serve two masters.

"A mayor cannot be in two places at one time," said Mr. Wilson. "I will give up any interests which conflict with my role as mayor, if elected."

Apart from the moral aspects of serving two masters, Mr. Wilson said a person could not physically do a good job if he had other interests besides being mayor.

BUSIEST TIME

"From after the election until the end of February is the busiest time, and needs full attention by the mayor," the retired businessman said.

Mr. Wilson also opposed the city taking over the bus system on a trial basis or on any other basis.

"On the other hand, however," he said, "I can't blame the provincial government for trying to unload it. We would probably do the same thing if we were in their shoes."

Mr. Elworthy, in outlining his platform, said he believed in the committee system of government.

ROUND-CLOCK U.S. EFFORT ON MAN-ORBIT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The United States pressed ahead today toward its goal of orbiting a man around the world this year.

Scientists, engineers and technicians worked round the clock and astronaut John Glenn, the chosen pilot, began extensive preparation in a "ready room" not far from the launching pad.

If all goes right, the attempt could be made as early as Dec. 20. Technical problems could delay the date, and major trouble could push it into 1962.

Glenn moved into special quarters on the cape Monday so he could be near all key centres of Project Mercury operations.

The "ready room" is the same lodging occupied by astronauts Alan Shepard and Virgil Grissom for a few days before their 15-minute sub-orbital flights earlier this year.

Champions are Made by Competition

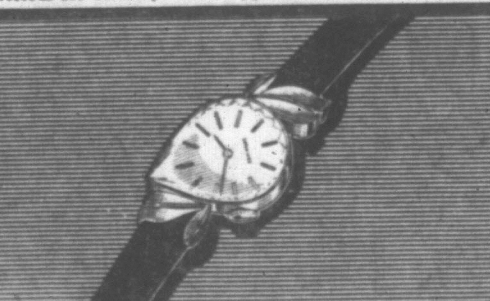

By Harrison J. Cowan

MONTREAL—How can one be sure of the truly fine quality of the watch he buys? All who sell in the market place extol the virtues of their wares. Self-praise seems an essential ingredient in all advertising. The Longines people deserve credit for clinging to an old-fashioned idea, that in watches as in sport, true champions are made by competition.

For example, in 1960 alone, in the competitive accuracy trials at Geneva and Neuchâtel Observatories, Longines led all others in number of prizes won. During the past three-quarters of a century, in other such official observatory competitions, Longines watches have won innumerable prizes, established many records for accuracy.

Again in 1960 Longines watches officially timed more than 3000 major athletic events all over the world including the Olympic Games at Squaw Valley; certified the crowning of 38 world champions; authenticated many new world-speed records on land, on water and in the air. The fact is that Longines has won highest honors in every area of competition in which the worth of a watch may be judged.

In the game of life a championship Longines watch is a joy to own. There is no more sound or satisfying investment. As the years pass you will learn that you paid no premium whatsoever for the superior qualities of your Longines. With ordinary care it can be a treasured possession, a valued friend and companion for an adult lifetime.

Questions Still Unanswered

THE EXCHANGE OF ABUSE between Mr. Bennett and Mr. Fulton is colorful, bitter but not important. What matters is the conflict of basic principle between the provincial and federal governments as they make a final attempt to settle the Columbia River dispute.

Mr. Bennett has played his trump card, or so he seems to consider it, in a new offer to Ottawa. He will sell all the Columbia's downstream power to the United States for a period of 20 years. The money thus received will be used to pay for the three Canadian dams at Arrow Lake, Duncan Lake and Mica Creek. Then at Mica Creek power can be produced at an extremely low cost, or for nothing, since the United States will have provided all the capital investment. Mr. Bennett will sell this power to a nation-wide Canadian electrical grid at a price below that paid by the Americans for the downstream power.

Evidently Mr. Bennett considers this a perfect solution, satisfactory to the governments at Washington, Ottawa and Victoria. But it is not nearly as simple and obvious as it may appear at first sight. Before he can expect the federal government to accept it he must answer several questions.

First, will the United States pay 5 mills for the downstream power if it can have this power for only 20 years? Would this be the net price received by the British Columbia government or must transportation costs be deducted from it? And would the money actually received be sufficient to pay for the Canadian dams, generators and transmission lines?

Second, assuming that Mr. Bennett's figures all add up, what price would he charge a national power grid for the power produced at Mica Creek? If all the Canadian dams can be built at the expense of the United States that price should be very low, next to nothing. But Mr. Bennett says only that it will be less than 5 mills. The federal government will want to know the definite figure.

Third, when will a national power grid be built and able to buy the Mica Creek power? To be sure, Mr. Diefenbaker has been talking lately about such a grid and no doubt it will figure as one of his promises in the next federal election, but the difficulties of creating it are so great that it may be delayed for many years. These difficulties are physical—the vast distance between power sites and consuming markets in Canada. They are also political—the reluctance of the provincial governments to share their local jurisdiction with the federal government.

Fourth, if Mica Creek power can be produced virtually free of cost, as Mr. Bennett says, why shouldn't the people of British Columbia enjoy it? Why should it be wheeled all over Canada—if that is ever possible—when the lower mainland and Vancouver Island will soon require large new sources of supply, according to Mr. Bennett?

No one has pretended that Peace River power can be produced for virtually nothing. The Wenner-Gren promoters estimated the price in Vancouver at 6 mills. Mr. Bennett estimates it about 4 mills since his government can borrow money more cheaply than a private corporation could do, and since a public corporation will pay no federal business tax.

All these estimates could be right or wrong, depending on the capital cost of the Peace scheme and on the daily sale of its power. (A company selling all its output, all the time, can sell more cheaply than a company selling only part of its output but still obliged to pay interest on its investment.)

Whatever the price of Peace power may turn out to be, it cannot be anything like as cheap as the Mica Creek power, according to Mr. Bennett's calculations. Mr. Fulton says it would not be as cheap as the downstream power which Mr. Bennett would sell to the United States.

Hence the final question: Why does Mr. Bennett insist that the lower mainland and Vancouver Island consumers must buy Peace River power though much cheaper power, by his own statement, is available at Mica Creek? That question, we may be sure, will be the first asked by the federal government when it confers with Mr. Bennett—assuming, of course, that the federal government is prepared to surrender its entire policy and sell the downstream power to the United States.

However the present stalemate between Victoria and Ottawa is approached, the great stumbling block remains. It is Mr. Bennett's insistence on developing the Peace regardless of its consequences to the Columbia and to the price of power.

Red Flag in the Caribbean

IN HIS WEEKEND ANNOUNCEMENT that he is a "Marxist-Leninist" and that he will lead Cuba down the path of Communism, Fidel Castro has openly revealed what has long been believed by much of the Western world.

In particular, he has vindicated the judgment of the U.S. State Department, and the opinion—although not the invasion advice—of the CIA.

At the time of his victory and assumption of the government of Cuba, the United States welcomed this bearded leader from the hills. He ended the corrupt Batista regime and gave promise of a new era for the Cuban people. Later, however, there were second thoughts. This was not the simple agrarian reformer so many people had thought, nor was he bringing political freedom to the victims of the Batista dictatorship.

Castro's immediate actions in muzzling the press, initiating people's courts which became savage public spectacles, carrying out secret arrests, appointing neighborhood "oversers" of the peoples' political morals, expropriating property both foreign and domestically owned, exiling priests, postponing promised elections, abolishing opposition political parties, and similar measures made it plain that here was no democratic leader.

Add to this campaign of hysterical vituperation against the United States and a growing affinity for Russian trade, Russian finances and Russian advisers, and there could be little doubt that Communism was going to play a major part in the Cuban future.

The United States was attacked in many quarters for this conviction. Washington was urged to "give Castro a chance," to abandon its trade embargoes and see Cuban developments in the light of long-delayed reforms.

The United States stuck to its position. There followed the catastrophic support given to the Cuban invasion—a fiasco which led to further condemnation of the United States' attitude.

But now Prime Minister Castro has confirmed the American stand. He has publicly acknowledged his communist adherence and explained that this was kept hidden until now so as not to "alienate the bourgeois and other forces which we knew we would eventually have to fight."

There can be no further rejection of the fact that Russian communism now has a first foothold in the Caribbean, a stepping-stone—only a few miles off the coast of the United States—into the Western Hemisphere. This hard, crystalline fact refracts a whole spectrum of political, economic and military problems for the West—problems which will have to be faced realistically now that Fidel Castro has defiantly raised his red flag.

Shunting the Gravy Train

DURING THE LAST YEAR AND a half, Quebec's Premier Jean Lesage has made excellent progress in redeeming his election pledge to eliminate party patronage. Lately the going has become tough.

It was simple enough to cut off the army of Union Nationale supporters who fattened on the public purse. Politically, they had bet on the wrong horse and lost.

Not quite so simple is the problem of dealing with Liberal party faithful who had considered themselves entitled to the spoils once their man was in power.

Mr. Lesage made the point clearly, a week after he assumed office, that "we will put an end to the era of public blood-suckers." The practical politicians in his own party were prepared to accept this idealism up to a point. Now, with a certain cynicism, they are wondering not only about rewards for the "faithful" but about potential campaign funds for the next election.

Nevertheless, the premier has placed anti-patronage men in key cabinet posts, has rejected patronage as a means of filling public office, has insisted on tenders for contracts and no kickbacks.

Mr. Lesage has dealt efficiently with his political enemies. Now he may need protection from his "friends."

FROM WASHINGTON

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Isolation and the Conscience of the World

IN HIS new appointment Mr. Chester Bowles is to be advisor to the President about affairs in Latin America, Africa and Asia. In effect, he will be concerned with the countries which are not within the Communist orbit and yet are not aligned with the anti-Communist alliances of which the most important is NATO. Although almost all of these countries are called "underdeveloped," they are in fact in all stages of development. The differences among them are of compelling importance.

Lippmann

There are primitive African tribal communities and there are economically advanced but not yet economically autonomous countries such as India and Brazil. Many, like the Sudan, are devoting themselves almost entirely to domestic development. A few, like Ghana, are politically adventurous.

Traditional Basis

In viewing the "non-alignment" of these new nations, it is well to remember our own tradition of isolation. All the Founding Fathers believed in it, and for a century it was the very basis of U.S. foreign policy.

There is no point in the arc between the poles of opinion which can be defined as exactly the right one. For there is no such thing as a general attitude towards neutrals which will be exactly right for all our dealings with the infinitely diverse and conglomerate mass of the peoples of the world whose governments are not allied with either of the great coalitions of the cold war.

For many of us it is always uncomfortable to find that there is no black and that there is no white, but only a large variety of grays. Yet that is what we must put up with in the real world. There is an enormous mass of mankind living in many different states, almost all of their governments recently created, who feel that they are outside the great conflicts which have preoccupied us for a generation. For them, the burning issue in the world is the elimination of the last vestiges of colonialism, not the conflict between Western and Communist society.

Still Isolated

Ever since we emerged from our isolation and neutrality, we have found it difficult to know just what to think and how to feel about countries which are still isolated and still cling to their neutrality. As a result, our opinion has in the main swung back and forth between two poles.

At one pole there is the feeling that in the great conflicts of our time, first with Nazism and Fascism and now with Communism, to be neutral, unaligned, uncommitted, and unengaged is immoral. At the other pole there is the reaction against this view. It inclines to an excess of humility, and is disposed to accept President Tito's claim that he and his fellow-neutrals are "the conscience of the world."

Since the Belgrade conference and the inability of the neutrals to deal with the moral issues raised by the Soviet's nuclear explosions, American opinion has swung sharply towards the view that we should stop paying heed to neutralist opinion.

There is no point in the arc between the poles of opinion which can be defined as exactly the right one. For there is no such thing as a general attitude towards neutrals which will be exactly right for all our dealings with the infinitely diverse and conglomerate mass of the peoples of the world whose governments are not allied with either of the great coalitions of the cold war.

For many of us it is always uncomfortable to find that there is no black and that there is no white, but only a large variety of grays. Yet that is what we must put up with in the real world.

There is an enormous mass of mankind living in many different states, almost all of their governments recently created, who feel that they are outside the great conflicts which have preoccupied us for a generation. For them, the burning issue in the world is the elimination of the last vestiges of colonialism, not the conflict between Western and Communist society.

United States efforts to convince them that colonialism has all but disappeared seem to them to miss the central point. Our appeals that they concern themselves with the subjugation of the peoples of Eastern Europe seem irrelevant to their own vital interests.

Final Decision

Being outside the great conflict of our time, trying to remain outside, certainly does not make the unaligned countries the conscience of the world. When it comes to the vital question, which is how to maintain the balance of power which preserves the peace of the world, the final decision cannot be left to those who do not have the ultimate responsibility for peace.

But in all that we do which affects their development, it is a different matter. There, we must have great and continual respect for their opinions, and the decisions must be joint and voluntary.

And so, while it would be foolish to treat the underdeveloped countries as our moral superiors, inviting them to lay down the law to us, it would be no less foolish, and inherently wrong, to talk as if we could and should lay down the law to them. What is more, we cannot lay down the law to them.

Wool Over the People's Eyes

Mr. Bennett must have an endless supply of wool to pull over the peoples' eyes.

In a full page ad actually written by himself, but which the reader might believe is the opinion of the Monetary Times, he attempts to justify one of a series of disastrous blunders which are leading this great province to the brink of ruin. The authorities he quotes in his defence are himself and a local business reporter.

World-wide condemnation of the rape of democracy, free enterprise and justice and the warnings of internationally known business and financial experts are ignored: so is a more realistic and frightening evaluation of Mr. Bennett's policies in the November issue of "Western Business."

The vast sums required for the future prosperity of B.C. are dependent on the confidence of foreign investors in responsible government: cheaper electricity is a drop in the bucket.

Unless we can find a government which will guarantee true democracy, we might as well retire behind the Iron Curtain. ROBIN DUNSMUIR, 2979 Seaview Road.

Just for Fun

No one could pretend that I am a dispassionate observer of the recent production of "Othello" by the department of English of Victoria College; I was involved in the play itself, as were many of my friends and colleagues. I should like, nevertheless, to make a few comments, not by way of apology, but simply to clarify the intention of the production.

From Our Files

Dec. 5, 1901 — London, Ont.: Alderman Olmstead and Alderman Jolly engaged in a bout of fistfights at last night's city council meeting after Jolly accused Olmstead of lying.

Dec. 5, 1921 — Premier Oliver announced today that permission will be granted to operate one-man streetcars in Victoria.

Dec. 5, 1941 — Japan delivered her answer today to President Roosevelt's request for an explanation of why Japanese troops were being massed in Indo-China.

Gallery Protection

A report appearing in your paper last week has unfortunately given the impression that the burglar alarm system installed at the Art Gallery is not working efficiently. This impression is totally erroneous. The system installed at the Gallery last year is the same that is presently in use in many other galleries on this continent. It is working exceptionally well and has no defects to the best of my knowledge.

All that remains to be done now is the working out of a co-operative arrangement between the Gallery and the police commission. With the assistance which I feel sure we can anticipate from the commission I can assure the public that the Gallery will receive the maximum possible protection.

H. R. STEPHEN, President, the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

Ancient And Loyal

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN
From Freetown (Sierra Leone)

FROM the sea it looks like an earthly paradise. There is an enormous estuary cutting into the green hills of Africa. A half-moon of these hills comes down to the water and, within their arms, lies the city, a huddle of swayed-backed tin roofs among palm trees, a maze of narrow streets and deep ditches, a mob of houses that look old and tired, built of wood and plaster, and all streaked with damp and touched with decay.

The city is an explosion of life on this desolate shore. It is loud with casually raised voices. Its streets are never still, and the men and women go in rags, or in robes that would grace an order of chivalry. There is not much sign of steady work. This is Freetown, the capital of Sierra Leone.

This is the place that Queen Elizabeth of England, who is called the Queen of Sierra Leone, visited. It is extraordinary in West Africa. It has no real political crisis. No voices are raised in political anger. Last April it calmly accepted independence as a wife, who has known for months what was coming, accepts a 'Christmas present from her husband.

Not many people write in newspapers about Sierra Leone. Why should they? It is too quiet. Its demands are too modest. It does not try to raise a din amid the rages of richer and busier places on the same coast.

Even in its history it is extraordinary. Old colonial documents automatically add the title of "ancient and loyal" to its name. In the 18th century there was a small English trading post here. In 1787, philanthropists in England arranged to send 351 Negro ex-slaves to settle here.

They were beneficiaries of the proud concept that the quality of England is such that any slave touching its soil is thereby made free. But there was precious little for them to do, or earn, in the country that had first captured and then freed them.

Robust Solution

As they set out, it was realized that they were without women. A robust 18th century solution was found. The press gang rounded up 50 women of the streets in Portsmouth and sent them along. Their comments have not survived, nor did many of them long survive the diseases, climate, and rigors of what was later called the "white man's grave."

Freetown earned its name when, after 1807, it became a centre for the suppression of the slave trade. This the Royal Navy took on single-handed and many thousands of Africans taken off American, French, and Spanish ships, were dumped here. They came from all along the coast; they ended in Freetown.

A curious urban civilization emerged. It was ostentatiously Christian. It was top-hatted and it despised the tribes of the interior. It was pervasively British in its loyalties. It called itself Creole.

This civilization produced the first of almost everything in Black Africa—the first school, the first university college, the first bishop, the first doctor (1850), the first knight, the first railway. It called itself the "Athens of Africa."

But the tribes of the interior asserted themselves, first in arms, and then, politically, with British help. And the Creoles never quite forgave the British for letting the interior people into the government.

Today the prime minister is from the interior. Sir Milton Augustus Stribey Margai, Privy Councillor, is 65, a tall wisp of a man, gentle, simple in his living, almost Gandhian in his demeanor. He is a doctor who worked many years as a government medical officer in the bush without thought of gain. He is also a shrewd politician.

His control is easy. There is no cult of personality. His policy is non-dictatorial. He prefers to work his economic changes at the parish-pump level. In foreign policy he does not pretend to set the world right. Of course he controls a vote in the United Nations, and his aim is to judge each issue on its merits.

He has little capital to play with. The farmers are unskilled. Most of the revenue comes from diamonds and iron ore, wasting assets in the hands of foreigners, and they may be exhausted in 50 years.

More Resources

The "Athens of Africa" has been outstripped by Nigeria and Ghana that came late on the scene but possessed more energy and more resources—yet they had their start from this place.

The local problems are formidable. Disease at its most beastly—leprosy, yaws, fevers, death in childbirth—are out of all proportion. Education touches few. One hundred and forty-six paramount chiefs still exercise real power, and 50 of them are illiterate. Brutalizing female circumcision is still practised. So are cults that are the perversion of old faiths. Sierra Leone has still to tame Africa.

There is an opposition. The size of its following is uncertain. It is led by a trades unionist called Siaka Stevens; in Ghana he would be labelled a moderate. His disagreement with Sir Milton Margai is mechanistic rather than ideological.

All the signs seem to show that Sierra Leone will remain a quiet backwater. At present no get-rich-quick schemes seem possible here. Race relations are probably the best in Africa. Progress is slow but steady and real. The average annual income is the lowest in what was British West Africa. Yet, as they are going now, they could in a few years reach the stage in which the country would be good to live in—for almost everyone.

Maybe it does not matter much. But there is something special and attractive about Sierra Leone. It bears its ills without immoderate complaint. It hates only a very little. It laughs at political pretentiousness. It is grateful for small favors. It has forgiven much. Its welcome is the most honest in Africa. One would desperately wish it to succeed with the panache that it deserves. (London Observer Service)

Gerald Waring

REPORTING

OTTAWA—The "undecided election campaign" months ahead of any likely voting day is a succession of tactical skirmishes designed to show where the various parties' strengths and weaknesses lie.

Each party will benefit in proportion to its ability to assess and analyze the impact on the voters of arguments and tactics — its own and its foes' — and to take remedial action where required. But the government has this advantage: It still has another session of Parliament in which it can bring forward legislation to improve its image in the eyes of the body politic.

This is, in fact, the gestation period of election platforms; the embryos are taking form before our eyes.

Like the disappearance of embryonic gills long before birth, there has been a disappearance of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's characterization of the next election as a struggle between private enterprise and socialism.

Seemingly the bogey of socialism failed to stir the public mind. No matter: the real socialists aren't a danger to the government, and if the Grits can't be damned as socialists, perhaps they can be belittled as administrative sluggards who let the country fall into the economic woes from which the Tories have been busy rescuing it these last four years.

Justice Minister Fulton made that very point last week, in a speech following the one in which he wrapped his dispute with Premier Bennett in the Canadian Ensign.

Fulton charged that Bennett is trying to work a "squeeze play" with U.S. Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall to bring about a "sell-out" of Columbia power to the U.S. Fulton thus sent the Conservatives into the ramparts once more to defend Canada against U.S. economic imperialism.

Last time it was U.S. subsidiaries and U.S. investment capital; this time it is a resources steal. The evidence: Udall had said it is "stuff and nonsense" for Canada to believe that power once committed to the U.S. market could not be recaptured to meet future Canadian needs.

Nevertheless, Fulton's sniping at Udall is safer politically than the attack Finance Minister Fleming appeared to be mounting against "perfidious Albion" over Common Market membership. Significantly, Diefenbaker broke off this engagement in his national TV address last week. The British, said the PM, pledged protection of Commonwealth interests — "and we know that pledge will be fulfilled."

The opinion polls show that the only real threat to the government is by the Grits, so the New Democrats are drawing little fire from the administration. Besides, persons who vote NDP won't be voting Liberal.

But Liberal Leader Pearson is concerned over the New Democrats. For example, he told off the other day on the NDP promise to boost the old age pension to $75 a month. "Not very responsible," Pearson commented, although he admitted a $75 pension "would be fine if we could do it."

Someone should perhaps tell Mr. Pearson that a politician doesn't win votes by telling the voters what he can't do for them. A more practiced politician might have said he was in favor of putting pensions as high as the economy could bear, implying that $75 would not necessarily be tops. But to its profit or otherwise, the Liberal party is stuck with a leader who is too honest intellectually to play the game the way most other politicians play it.

Interlocking Plan For Church Unity

NEW DELHI (AP) — In a major stride toward its goal of world-wide unity of churches, the general assembly of the World Council of Churches Monday night pledged to work for interlocking church communities rather than a single ecclesiastical organization of all Christians.

The 9,000-word document, set forth conditions and relationships the council regards as the goal of church unity, and emphasized that "unity does not imply simple uniformity of organization, rite or expression."

It proposed instead a system of interlocking communities on the local, national and international level with mutual recognition of ministries, members and joint participation in the Lord's Supper.

Approval by the 600 delegates—representing the Council's 198 Protestant, Orthodox, National Catholic and other denominations—marked the first time that the world church body has spelled out its thoughts on the pathways to church unity.

It declared that such unity "will involve nothing less than a death and rebirth of many forms of church life as we have known them. We believe that nothing less costly can finally suffice."

The guide outlined various steps for the settlement of problems which pose obsta-

Single Berlin Policy Aim Of Talks Between Mac, JFK

WASHINGTON (CP) — Prime Minister Macmillan and President Kennedy will meet in Bermuda Dec. 21 and 22 to review the state of Western readiness for possible Berlin negotiations with Russia.

Informants suggested the talks, announced Monday, may be followed by a concerted Western bid to Moscow, to begin four-power, East-West negotiations — perhaps in the form of a foreign ministers conference.

These prospects are based on American hopes that West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will be able to persuade French President Charles de Gaulle to go along with the idea of East-West bargaining.

The Adenauer-de Gaulle meeting takes place at Paris Saturday. De Gaulle is reported opposed to negotiations with the Russians under the present state of Soviet-initiated world tensions.

But the British-American view is that Berlin negotiations are necessary to prevent a shooting war and that willingness to negotiate does not by itself represent appeasement.

A major issue is that Kennedy wants the 110-mile highway connecting West Germany and West Berlin placed under international control to guarantee freedom of movement for West Berliners. Russia

Herter Urges U.S. Trade With Europe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former secretary of state Christian A. Herter said Monday the United States may find it difficult to maintain some of its military commitments if it becomes locked in a foreign trade battle with the European Common Market.

"I can't think of nothing the Soviet Union would like better than to see a first rate trade war between us and the other side of the Atlantic," Herter told a House-Senate economic subcommittee studying foreign trade policy.

The alternative, he said, is to join forces with the European Common Market with a view to increasing trade.

Herter previously joined former undersecretary of state William L. Clayton in advocating a U.S. trade partnership with the common market. They acted in their roles as co-chairmen of the U.S. citizens commission on NATO.

Herter also said the liberal new trade policy expected to be pushed by the Kennedy administration should not exclude products of less developed countries which the free world is trying to help.

All Out for Art

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House of Representatives currently is spending about $15,000 to move a painting from one wall to another.

If that sounds exorbitant, I should explain that the project is a bit more complicated than rehanging those bird prints—your Aunt Etel gave you for Christmas.

In transferring this painting from one wall to another, the movers have to take part of the wall along with it.

The painting, entitled "Cornwallis Sues for a Cessation of Hostilities Under a Flag of Truce," is the work of Constantino Brumidi, whose artistry can be seen throughout the U.S. Capitol.

An odd thing about Brumidi was that he didn't bother with canvas, like most other artists. He believed in painting right on the wall.

Brumidi did "Cornwallis Sues for a Cessation, etc." on a wall in the House chamber in 1857. It could be seen there until about 10 years ago, when the chamber was remodelled.

At that time, another wall was built in front of it. And so, for the past decade, it has been hidden from view.

This year, someone decided that the painting would look nice on the wall of a new House restaurant, which will be opened in January. Therefore, steps were taken to uncover it.

Workmen carefully removed all of the bricks from behind the painting, leaving just the plaster on which Brumidi worked. Then they doctored the plaster with a special preparation to make it harden.

Then they built a reinforcing frame around this 12-foot section and cut the entire thing out of the wall. The other day, they began the delicate task of moving it to the new location.

In order to complete the transfer, they must remove the swinging door at the top of the south steps of the Capitol and bring up a crane to swing the painting down to another entrance.

For some reason, the painting usually is described as a scene showing George Washington accepting the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown. Actually, Cornwallis isn't in it.

What Brumidi depicted was one of Cornwallis' officers petitioning Washington for a two-day truce.

For that matter, Cornwallis never did surrender directly to Washington. The British commander wasn't feeling well that day, so he sent a General O'Hara to represent him at the ceremony.

At any rate, if all goes well, and the plaster doesn't crumble under the strain, the painting eventually will become a part of the restaurant wall and presumably will make dining there more enjoyable.

This is similar to trying to improve the food.

WIDER BILL OF RIGHTS SOUGHT

TO HIT DISCRIMINATION

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker declared Monday his personal ambition is to secure a bill of rights affecting both federal and provincial fields of jurisdiction written into a Canadian Constitution.

He said he had hoped that the present Parliament would be able to secure a final amendment to the British North America Act making it possible for all future amendments to be made in Canada.

When this is done, he said, the first amendment would be to write a federal-provincial bill of rights into the Constitution.

In addition to guaranteeing the basic rights not embodied in the federal Bill of Rights so far as federal jurisdiction is concerned, the new bill should abolish discrimination of all forms, such as barriers to the transfer of land titles to persons of specified origin or religion, and denials of hotel accommodation or membership in clubs to individuals because of their race.

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke at the opening of a conference called by the citizenship department and attended by 85 editors of newspapers and periodicals published in more than 50 languages serving various ethnic groups and immigrants.

STRACHAN SEES END OF CPR FERRY RUN

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan Monday predicted the Canadian Pacific Railway ferries from Nanaimo to Vancouver will go out of business because the B.C. government has bought the Black Ball ferries.

Mr. Strachan also promised that the New Democratic Party will question the government's purchase price at the next session of the legislature—starting Jan. 23.

He said the government would be held accountable if it was proved too high.

If the government wants to make the Black Ball service hourly from Nanaimo to Horseshoe Bay it should build a bridge to Gabriola Island and start the service from there, he said.

Bartenders Criticized By Coroner

COURTENAY — Coroner T. A. Menzies Monday criticized bartenders and liquor outlet operators who serve liquor to people in advanced stages of intoxication.

The coroner was conducting an inquest into the death of Donald Day who was killed in a Nov. 10 car accident.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

Day's movement that day was traced until 2:30 p.m. when he left a Cumberland beer parlor.

EVIDENCE WITHHELD

Police were unable to say where Day was drinking most of the day, although evidence was submitted to show that Day was denied admission in one hotel.

Coroner Menzies said he felt evidence with regard to the movements of Day was being withheld deliberately.

VANCOUVER ISLAND ROUNDUP

Work Starts Soon on Paving Job

Bids will be opened Dec. 13 on the first stretch of a 30-mile paving job on the highway between Campbell River and Kelsey Bay.

Work will start this winter on the project, expected to cost close to $3,000,000.

Bids on the northerly stretch, 15.35 miles between Sayward and Roberts Lake, will be opened Dec. 13.

Bids on the second stretch, 15.27 miles between Roberts Lake and Menzies Bay, near Campbell River, will be opened one week later, Dec. 20.

The new highway will provide a link with Port Hardy, on the northern Island coast, when a new ferry service goes into effect from Kelsey Bay.

Eventually another ferry will link Port Hardy and a U.S. ferry service from Haines, Alaska, to Prince Rupert.

NANAIMO — Harmac employees of MacMillan Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., concerned over unemployment problems in this area, have voted to reduce their working hours.

At two special meetings the members of Local 695 of the International Brotherhood of Pulp and Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers voted in favor of going on a 40-hour work week.

The union negotiated a 40-hour work week in 1952-1953 but because of the complexities involved in arranging work schedules in shift work, a 42-hour average work week has been in effect.

PARKSVILLE — The Nanaimo, Alberni and District Labor Council has decided to support Fred Bishop who is opposing Mayor Mabel Anderson in the Alberni municipal elections.

Mrs. Anderson has been involved in a running feud with her council for the past two years.

The council met here Sunday and decided to back other Island candidates.

They endorsed Charles Blair, Russel Foxcroft and George Dunbar for aldermen in Alberni; George Cole, Les Hamner and E. E. Bowen for council and Stan Wilson for school trustee in Port Alberni; Bill

Rain Delays New Runways

Wet weather has delayed a start on new runways at Patricia Bay Airport until next year.

Contract for the $201,810 job of building a 1,000-foot extension to the main runway was officially awarded by the federal government Monday to Dawson, Wade and Co. of Vancouver.

A spokesman for the firm said work will not start until "early in the new year."

Another delay in the project is slow progress so far as re-routing the highway through the outskirts of Sidney, Granding was expected to start soon, but wet weather may make it difficult.

McGregor for Nanaimo council and Max Slater and Harry Harris for Courtenay council.

QUALICUM — The Island Council for Control of Radiation Hazards and for Survival will meet Dec. 17 at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. H. Fagan, Qualicum Beach.

MILL BAY — Preliminary work on a $6,000,000 apartment building on Mill Bay's waterfront will start next month, A. L. Jamieson, president of Jamieson Construction Co. of Vancouver, said Monday.

The apartment is for elderly people.

Mr. Jamieson said working drawings for the multi-storey building to house 500 people are nearly completed.

The apartment is the first of its kind in Canada and company officials are confident this type of project will spread throughout the country.

Under the apartment scheme, retired couples will have a choice of two types of apartments—a single bed-sitting room with bath or a double unit. The former will cost $8,000 and the latter a lump sum of $20,000.

In addition the monthly rent, including meals, maid service and laundry is $125.

DUNCAN — Members of the Cowichan Bay Fire Department here have decided to raise funds to purchase property for the erection of a new fire hall.

The proposed site adjoins the existing Cowichan Bay waterworks installation.

The water district board has agreed to share the cost of buying the land.

Gar Robinson was re-elected by acclamation as fire chief with Steve Gillis as his deputy.

A. O. Mertless was elected secretary-treasurer, and Glen Spinks, fire captain. In the women's auxiliary, Mrs. Ed. Ricketts will be telephone committee convener.

Maple Street needs another Volkswagen.

When you own a Volkswagen, you can expect company after a snow storm. Inquisitive company. They'll want to know why your car got through the drifts, and theirs didn't.

There's no trick to it. A Volkswagen has its engine in the rear where it does the most good. The extra weight over the drive wheels provides an amazing amount of traction, even on icy hills. When you want to stop safely, but in a hurry, the VW's traction keeps you out of trouble.

Another blessing in cold weather is the VW's air-cooled engine. There's no water, so there's no need for anti-freeze. You don't even need a garage. (If your Volkswagen won't start in sub-zero weather, check the gas gauge.)

Look underneath a conventional car and you'll find wires and rods and whatnot. In deep snow they can be a drag, and they can be damaged. The underside of a Volkswagen is completely covered with a smooth sheet of metal. There's nothing to hold you back but your own caution.

So, if clearing a snow-filled driveway is not for you, make friends with a Volkswagen owner. Or, better still, a Volkswagen dealer.

DUTCH SHIP ENGULFED OFF IRISH COAST

9 Missing as Huge Seas Wash Lifeboat Away

BALLINA, Ireland (AP)—The engineer of the Dutch motorship Stientje Mensinga today related how raging seas gushed over the vessel before it sank in a fierce gale off the bleak northwest coast of the Republic of Ireland.

Four of the 470-ton ship's crew are missing along with five German seamen who tried to rescue them. The nine were washed away in a lifeboat, just when safety seemed near.

The Stientje Mensinga smashed into a rock Monday as it struggled up the coast.

"I felt a great bump," said chief engineer Louis Van Eljk. "We were travelling at half speed in pitch darkness and rough seas. We had hit a rock and started taking water very badly. The damage was so great we could not repair it and the pumps failed.

"The boat took on a heavy list and when we were all on deck the waves were crashing over us."

Eljk, 34, was making his first voyage on the vessel. With the ship lurching dangerously in the storm, Captain Johann Mink of Amsterdam called for volunteers to stay aboard with him. Three men elected to remain.

The remaining six—Eljk, two other Dutchmen and three Spaniards—were lifted off Monday night by an RAF helicopter from Northern Ireland.

A rescue ship, the 766-ton German motor vessel Maria Schulte, then sent over a lifeboat with five crew members and took off the four remaining men just before the Stientje Mensinga keeled over and sank.

The lifeboat plowed back towards the Maria Schulte, helped by a towline connecting it with the ship. The line snapped. And the lifeboat was plucked up by the waves and washed away.

One body was later reported washed ashore on the rocks.

What everyone should know about compound interest!

Compound interest is a fascinating thing—if you can really make it work for you!

The trouble is most forms of investment pay dividends or interest as earned.

It is so easy for young and middle-aged men to take such dividends and interest and spend them as they come along—with the result that they become old men ready to retire before they realize that they have wasted the true power of compounded interest.

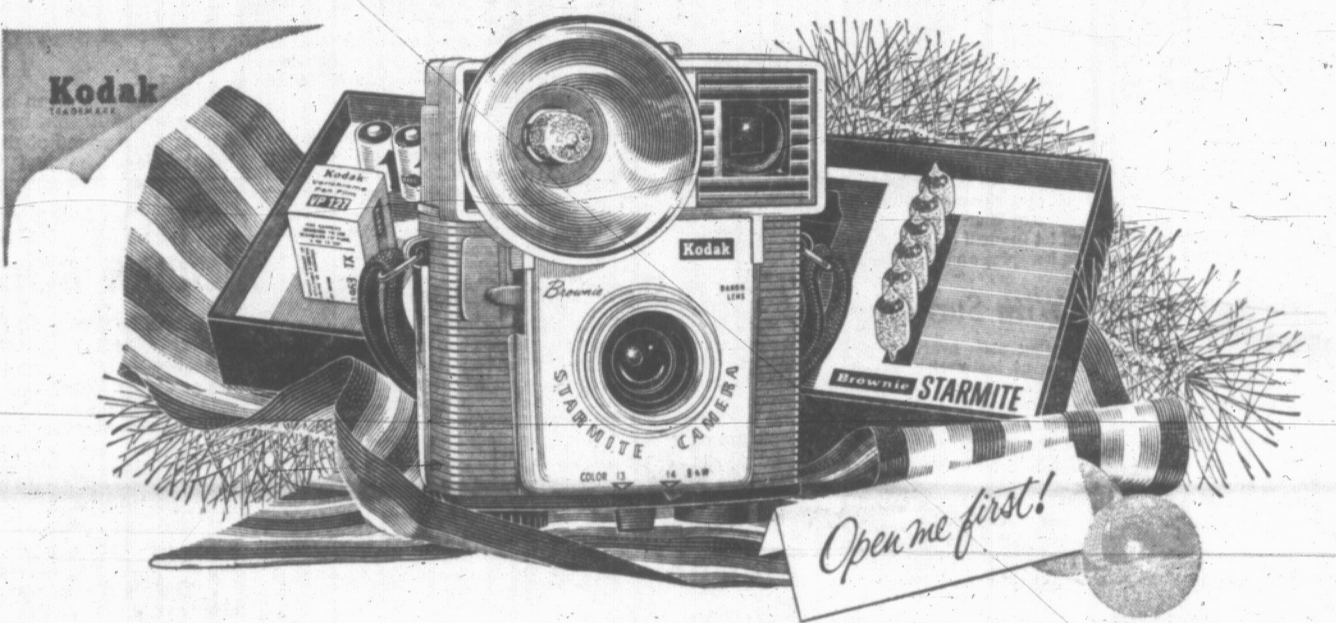

Permanent personal life insurance is unique!

It pays compound interest upon the investment portion of the premium—but it does so by saving the simple interest and compounding it, instead of paying it out each year or making it so easily available that the temptation to take it out is almost irresistible.

The Excelsior Life man in your community can tell you how compound interest in permanent personal policies may provide an attractive "Blueprint for Security" for you and your family.

Don't Cry for McNeeley —He's $82,000 Richer

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

Any fellow who co-inhabits with six females, aged five months to—oops! (that would earn me a good kick in the tibia) should have enough sense to stick to beauty instead of brawn.

I am not aware of her precise measurements, but Miss Hamilton Tiger-Cat, a 19-year-old blonde cupcake named Ingrid Osmolowsky, obviously scored enough points Friday to win the Miss Grey Cup contest by at least two kiss-curls over the Winnipeg cutie, Theresa Stangl. This was the last time Hamilton was to succeed on the weekend.

The perils of sticking with manly muscles instead of enticing curves became evident to this prognosticator just before halftime Saturday.

Hamilton, you will recall, had swept into a seven-point lead on a play intended to pick up little more than a first down. Trying to move out of his own end, Hamilton's Bernie Faloney threw a linedrive pass to Paul Dekker. The latter caught it, did a little dance around two Winnipeggers, and was off on a 90-yard trek.

Karcz Made Ledyard Cough It Up

After that the contest settled down to rock-and-roll performances by the rocks of granite commonly referred to as linemen. About the only unexpected activity was provided by Jack Delvaux. Sent into kick for Winnipeg when Charlie Shepard had ankle miseries, Delvaux made Cam Fraser, the touted Hamilton punter, look like a little leaguer.

It was in fact Shepard's substitute, Delvaux, who put Winnipeg on the board after 25 minutes of play. His bomb into the end zone still left the Blues behind 7-1.

Unable to open the throttle with Kenny Ploen at the controls, Winnipeg sent in Hal Ledyard. Fading back to throw, Ledyard stopped as if something was bothering him. Something was. Zeno Karcz, the Hamilton linebacker who had mounted several ferocious assaults on Toronto's Tobin Rote a week earlier, wrapped his paws around Ledyard's neck and shook it. Ledyard dropped the ball. Working against time, Hamilton moved to the one-yard line with five seconds to play.

Nine times out of 10, no defence—no matter how resolute—can repulse the enemy in this situation. Winnipeg was no different. But this time they didn't have to. The usually peerless Faloney instead let the ball dribble through his fingers, Winnipeg jumped on his spine and the rally died.

Sprinkle the Crow With Surmise

Had Hamilton succeeded on that play, overtime might never have been needed. There is no inclination, however, to emphasize the "might." All through the second half Hamilton seemed as prone to being caught as a young swain cornered by the rifle-toting father of a bride-to-be. In other words (and the crow tastes fine, thank you), trying to stop Winnipeg Saturday was like attempting to halt water running downhill.

Scant mention has been made of Faloney's option on that particular play. He could have eschewed the gamble of mishandling the ball or even of failing to get the yard had Winnipeg been stubborn. He could simply have let Mr. Fraser kick it (from that close in) into orbit for a single point.

That point would have loomed monstrously large after Faloney passed to Ralph Goldston for the TD that put the Tiacs ahead 14-4. A 15-4 score would have left Winnipeg with the messy chore of needing a touchdown, convert and single to tie it up.

There was irony in the fact that from this point on the so-called superior passing club was felled by a team which has won few medals for its aerial magnificence.

Bernie Out—Ingrid In—THE Play

For Faloney, however, there was no choice. Without the injured Larry Hickman, the only back capable of generating any thrust, Faloney had to throw. He did hit Dekker and Goldston and the incomparable Hal Patterson. But Winnipeg, aware that they could resist Hamilton on the ground, kept walking up Faloney's windpipe before he could get the ball away.

Significantly, it was three Canadians, Steve Patrick, Cornell Piper and Roger Savoie, who did the major part of the molesting. If Faloney suffers from nightmares this winter, it will be because of the "Canadian Press" put on by those Prairie musketeers.

Ploen's 37-yard fling to Farrell Funston, setting up Gerry James with the tying touchdown, was a legitimate piece of work. But that winning trot by Ploen, born out of frustration when he appeared trapped, was hardly a tribute to Hamilton's powers of recovery. Three Hamiltonians seemed certain to flat-iron him but he beat the odds handsily.

As some wise pineapple said before the game, Winnipeg can be beaten but they seldom beat themselves. All Hamilton's mistakes, save one, have been dealt with.

Somewhere in the second half when Winnipeg was getting mean and nasty and irreverent, Jim Trimble should have made an important substitution—Ingrid Osmolowsky for Bernie Faloney. Ain't nobody—not even a Blue Bomber—gonna dump a lady on her plus fours.

Polite Floyd Decks Foe In Four; Liston Quicker

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO (CP)—World heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson says he hasn't the killer instinct. But he'll need it if his manager, Cus D'Amato ever matches his fighter against Sonny Liston.

This was evident to scores of fight fans in Canada and the United States Monday night in a closed-theatre television doubleheader that featured the champ in Toronto and Liston in Philadelphia. Each won over pushovers but Sonny impressed the customers.

It took Patterson four rounds and eight knockdowns to dispose of unranked Tom McNeeley of Arlington, Mass., before 7,813 persons in Maple Leaf Gardens in the eighth defence of the title. In 1956, Liston needed only one solid punch, a vicious right cross to the jaw to finish West Germany's Albert Westphal at 1:58 of the first round in Convention Hall.

Closed-circuit cameras beamed both fights to the respective arenas and to more than 100 theatres through

North America. There was little skirmishing in the Liston fight. In Toronto, it was a brawl with McNeeley, as green as the trunks he was wearing, monotonously getting up to take a thrashing until he sprawled down for keeps at 2:51 of the fourth.

"I do not have the killer instinct," Patterson, 26, admitted after his wounding with McNeeley, 24.

"I'm ready for Patterson now," said Liston, who opened the title fight.

Liston is the No. 1 challenger and a natural to take on the champ.

"Liston can have a fight next week if he wants one," D'Amato said. "He knows what he has to do to get that. No, I can't say what it is. But Liston knows."

D'Amato's System Painfully Evident

D'Amato refused to elaborate and this shyness is construed in fight circles as a dodge. D'Amato has been hand-picking palsies for Patterson since he won the world title in 1956 and this was painfully evident Monday night when McNeeley, a 10-to-1 underdog, was led to the sacrificial altar.

A crowd of 7,813 paid up to $50 a seat to watch Canada's first world heavyweight title bout at the 15,000-capacity Gardens.

The mandatory eight-count was in effect on knockdowns and this caused confusion. At the end fans weren't certain whether McNeeley had gone down eight, nine or 10 times and Patterson once.

Expert observers figured the six-foot-two, 197-pounder hit the deck eight times and was down twice on slips. But he was still able to nail Patterson after the first of three knockdowns in the fourth round and the champ wobbled and started to go down. His glove appeared to hit the canvas but it was ruled a slip.

Referee Jersey Joe Walcott, former heavyweight titleholder from Camden, N.J., explained that "when I didn't count, I figured it was a slip."

After Patterson was hit, the champ felled his bleeding opponent for two eight-counts with left-right barrages and then finally with a left-right combination to the jaw for the full count of 10.

'Have to Show Some Consideration'

McNeeley didn't agree with Walcott, that Patterson had slipped. "I really hit him. I tried to finish it then but Patterson was too elusive. That was my chance but I couldn't capitalize on it."

Of the slip—or knockdown—Patterson said, "I really felt that punch. I knew exactly what was going on as I went down. It's when you don't know what's happening that you're in trouble. I don't call that a knockdown. It was a slip. A knockdown is when the fighter goes down and doesn't know where he is."

The champion, who has defended his title nine times and who has been knocked out once by Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, referred again to the killer instinct. He said he had 40 fights and won 38 of them without it.

"After all, this is a sport, not a business. You have to show some consideration to the other fighter."

But don't feel sorry for McNeeley, who ended with a welt under his right eye. He had his biggest payday in 24 pro fights.

It is estimated he'll receive a purse of close to $82,000—$21,000 from his share of the $106,740 gate receipts and $60,000 from theatre-TV. His previous high was a measly $9,000. Patterson is expected to pick up around $190,000.

Memphis Ace Favors Esks

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Memphis State quarterback James Earl Wright, one of the nation's top five ground gainers before a mid-season injury, indicated today he might sign with the Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian Football League.

"I am definitely leaning toward Edmonton," Wright said on his return from Toronto today. "They have made the best offer I have gotten."

Gervais Takes a Pair From Gary Leibel Rink

Emphasizing knockout rather than draw, the champion Canadian curling rink of Hec Gervais Monday took two exhibition games from Gary Leibel's foursome at Esquimaux Sports Centre.

Gervais, Ray Werner, Wally Ursuliak and Ron Anton, won the afternoon game 9-6 and the nightcap 9-7.

That left the Edmonton rink at four wins and one loss in their Pacific Coast tour. They were beaten 6-5 in Vancouver last Saturday by a rink skippered by the crafty Fred Tinning.

The visitors won two games at Seattle Sunday, defeating Tony Folk 7-6 and Dr. Frank Crealick, the U.S. champion, 9-8.

Leibel's rink included Dan Martel, Wes Young and Bill Dunstan.

Gervais plays Glen Harper at Duncan today before moving back to the mainland to conclude the tour.

'TISN'T TIME YET, OLD CHAP'

Helping hand is given heavyweight challenger Tom McNeeley of Boston by champion Floyd Patterson during third round of title bout at Toronto Monday night. Hands he had "given" McNeeley earlier, combined with those he threw later, led to McNeeley hitting canvas eight times. When he didn't rise in the fourth round, referee Jersey Joe Walcott lifted Patterson's hand in victory symbol.

ACTION SLOW AT GATE; MOORE BOUT ON SHELF

MONTREAL (UPI)—The Archie Moore-Robert Cleroux non-title heavyweight bout was cancelled today because of a poor gate, but promoter Eddie Quinn hoped to re-schedule the bout after Christmas.

No definite date was announced.

"There just isn't any box office," Quinn said. He said it was not determined how big the gate would be, but it definitely would be insufficient to make the fight a paying proposition.

Some observers had speculated that the price range for seats was set too high for Canada, at a top of $25 for ringside seats.

The fight also was scheduled for only a day after world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson successfully defended his title against Tom McNeeley in Toronto, providing a transportation problem for fans who might otherwise have wanted to see both encounters.

Chiefs Engage Pickell & Co.

Victoria's Haida Chiefs have had most of their trouble in the young basketball season with skyscraper scoring aces.

In their opening two games against Alberni Athletics, it was Billy Joe Price, a six-nine, 190-pound expert at tossing a ball through a hoop, who caused the most headaches.

Last Saturday it was Art Day, another six-nine centre, who paced 'Seattle Thunderbirds to a 100-83 victory over the city's only senior "A" hoop squad.

Chiefs, appearing to improve each time out, are heading for another dose of the same kind of trouble at Mount View High School Wednesday night.

They tackle Vancouver Puritans of Inter-City Basketball League and handling the pivot for Puritans is an old hand at scoring, heroics—Bob Pickell, six-six.

Pickell has won the scoring crown in Vancouver's top hoop loop for more than a decade. Now 34, he's showing signs of slowing down this season; but after seven games he was still out in front of the Inter-City point parade with 150 points, including one 31-point effort.

Chiefs uncovered a scoring whiz themselves last Saturday—smooth Ken McCulloch, who fired 35 points.

However, if the Haidas are going to end their losing streak they'll probably have to find a way to shackle the fun-loving Pickell. They'll start trying at 8:30.

A preliminary game at 7 will open Wednesday's program.

'SKINS PICK DAVIS

Pro Grid Clubs Draft Them All

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Football League opened its player draft Monday with Washington Redskins choosing halfback Ernie Davis of Syracuse and then rambled on through a 14-hour marathon which culminated in the choosing of 280 United States college football players.

Anyone and everyone was chosen in the draft, which included John Havlicek, renowned Ohio State basketball player.

Davis, Heisman Trophy winner, was the prime target and is the first Negro ever drafted by the Redskins.

TRADE POSSIBLE

Word quickly spread that Washington would trade Davis for an established pro star. However, Paul Brown, coach of Cleveland Browns, at first denied that he would trade halfback Bobby Mitchell and top draft choice Gary Collins of Maryland for Davis. Brown later said he might deal Mitchell in a straight trade for Davis.

Mitchell, also a Negro and former University of Illinois star, has been in military service but has played weekends for the Browns.

CHECK WITH PLAYERS

One reason the NFL draft dragged out so long was that the rival American Football League held its draft last Saturday. Owners and coaches in the NFL were busy checking with players to determine whether they intend to sign with the NFL or the rival league.

Davis was the first choice of the AFL's Buffalo Bills. He said he will go where he can get the best deal, be happy and have a long future supplemented by a good off-season job.

Rumor Has SMU After Jim Owens

SEATTLE (AP)—Washington Coach Jim Owens, home from a mysterious mission to Los Angeles, refused to discuss the trip today despite speculation here that Southern Methodist University has entered the bidding for his services.

Southern Methodist released football coach Bill Meek Saturday.

Owens had attempted to squelch earlier reports Texas A and M was offering him the job of head coach and athletic director, a combined post he now holds at Washington.

AFTERMATH OF LITTLE GREY CUP

Oak Bay Officials Don't Agree With Our Hal

An open letter to Mr. Hal Malone from the executive of the Oak Bay Juvenile Football Club:

Dear Mr. Malone:

In answer to your article of Nov. 28, 1961, it is quite obvious to us that you either know nothing about the game of football or you didn't bother to go see the Little Grey Cup game. It appears to us that you are sore because the Oak Bay Farmer Construction team lost the game, or sore because there is a game such as football in the city.

In the first place, for your information (which could have been obtained from us before you wrote this article), on the Oak Bay team we also have three individuals who weigh 200 lbs. or over and also it was not their size that beat our club, but their experience and speed. I might add your paper did nothing to help the mental attitude of the Oak Bay club. The people in Victoria know more about the Fort Garry club and their wonderful setup at home for teaching young players than they know about their own club locally.

Have you ever written a constructive article asking the people of Victoria to get out and help the local clubs? I suggest not; in fact, to the contrary, you have done your best to ruin and ridicule the sport and tear down what many of us have spent the better part of seven years to build up. Anyone can sit back and criticize, but how many times have you used the medium of the paper to help the local sports picture? As you well know, or should know, sport, like anything else, has to be sold to the public, and there has been no better way devised than through the press.

Take, for example, your article on the Little Grey Cup game. Never once did you mention the fact that the Oak Bay team went onto the field and played their hearts out against a team which has been together for six years. Anyone who has ANY knowledge of football knows that size is not everything; size is something you can combat, but speed and experience is something that has to be developed.

In reference to the fact that Oak Bay only gained 29 yards offensively, if you would consult some of the statistics in the professional leagues you will find that this is not unusual; for example, the last Hamilton and Toronto game.

It is generally agreed by everyone on the Oak Bay team that, pound for pound, Nanaimo-Redmen are as big if not bigger than the Fort Garry Lions, and you as a sports writer should have had facts such as this if you were at all interested in the LOCAL sports picture.

When talking to some of the executive of the Fort Garry team after the game, they stated that they were amazed at the amount of coverage given their team in our papers and the lack of information about the Farmer Construction team. Gary Hobson said the paper coverage wouldn't have been that way in the Winnipeg papers as they are solidly behind their clubs.

To our knowledge you have written two articles about football this year and both have been to criticize; not constructive criticism, but just criticism. If you do not know enough or anything by the sound of your articles, or you do not care for the game, that's fine, but don't throw cold water in the faces of a bunch of kids who are fine athletes who had been practising three times a week since July

'REDMEN BIGGER THAN LIONS'

With Our Hal

and every night of the week for the last six weeks to get into the Little Grey Cup.

They were beaten, yes, by a better club, but they can make you feel pretty small and very proud when they come off the field and say: "Sorry, coach, but we tried and we will try even harder next year."

There is not ONE player who was in that game who would not welcome the chance to play the Fort Garry squad again tomorrow. As for injuries, we had one injury and Fort Garry three. We had a harder game, injury-wise, against Nanaimo.

We are appreciative of the coverage we have been given by the other sports writers in town, but one article such as yours can undo all that has been done to promote minor sports in Victoria.

It should also be noted by you that the people who support and operate football teams are not, as you infer, a bunch of sadists who like to use young boys as fodder for their own egotistical gains, but are sincerely interested not only in the athletic betterment of the boys but, to try in some small way to teach the boys good sportsmanship in life.

Finally, Mr. Malone, we would like to say something (only you know why you wouldn't say): "We, the executive, and we think we speak for all our fans, are very proud of the fight put up by those Oak Bay Farmers. And if this is what you consider pink-cheeked little boys, then we hope we have all kinds out next year. We think they're tops."

(Submitted by: Norm Gillis, president; Jack Groves, manager; Jack Bryan, coach; for the executive of Farmer Construction Football Club.)

This Ladd's Fantastic — Eating and Playing

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
NEW YORK (NEA)—When Ernie Ladd feels he's putting on a little weight, he cuts down on his breakfast. From 15 eggs over lightly to eight. Otherwise, he still has a pound of bacon, half a loaf of toast or a dozen pancakes, depending on the mood, half a gallon of juice, half a gallon of milk and half a jar of jam. He'll eat a light lunch, too: 10 pork chops, three rice helpings, three green bean helpings, half a gallon milk, three peach cobbles and three dishes of ice cream.

That barely keeps the 22-year-old defensive tackle of the San Diego Chargers going. He weighs 317 pounds. There's a lot of frame to stoke, from the top of his head 6 feet 9 inches down to the toes of his size 17 EEE shoes.

He is, of course, the biggest man in professional football. Playing for the club that ran up 11 straight victories in the American League before being upset Sunday by Houston, he's setting a fantastic pace—both eating and playing.

Ladd has, for instance, changed the dining habits of the Chargers. When they're on the road, they look for places on the American plan.

son named Barron who owns the club.

FOUR BEEF DINNERS

On the European plan, Bob Burdick of the Charger front office estimates it costs the club $50 a day to feed the big Ladd. In the evening alone he'll have four roast beef dinners at $6.50 apiece, or $26.

One night he put on an exhibition for Larry Fox of the New York World-Telegram and Sun: two shrimp cocktails, three dishes of cole slaw, three servings spinach, three baked potatoes, eight rolls and butter accordingly, half gallon of milk, three exotic deserts... and four 16-ounce steaks.

"He's lost his appetite," half-back Irv Roberson of the Chargers said to Fox. "You should see him eat when nobody's watching."

DUCK IS FAVORITE

Burdick asked him once if there was any food he doesn't like. Ladd said, "Squash." It took him five minutes to think of that. His favorite food is duck. The Chargers are careful to travel where it's out of season.

"Next year," Burdick kidded him straight-face, "you're going to get $10 per diem."

"Then," shrugged Ladd, "I'm just gonna have to use all my money for food."

Ladd generally eats in San Diego at a restaurant on Imperial Boulevard. He wandered in one day, and the proprietor, forewarned, prepared a tray of food shaped like a pyramid. Ernie, shoveling through it, licked his fingers, and said, "That's a nice teaser."

GREAT POTENTIAL. He still eats there. They charge for the first course.

He used to share an apartment with Roberson, a normal-sized halfback, and Earl Faison (256) and guard Ernie Barnes (260). He had to move out. It got too crowded.

The other Chargers call him "Big Man." Except linebacker Paul Maguire. He yells across the locker room, "Hey, Big Mouth."

Ernie gives him a mock frown and says, "You don't want your head on your shoulders, boy."

The rookie from Grambling, a little school in Louisiana, is called by Coach Sid Gillman "potentially the greatest line man I've ever seen."

The bills are also paid by Gillman as general manager of the Chargers. Sid shook up the team one morning when he walked into breakfast and ordered, "A dozen over nightly."

Alabama Voted Top Team

Alabama was voted the 1961 Associated Press national college football champion today.

Defence-minded Alabama drew 452 of a possible 480 points to edge Ohio State, the Big Ten champion which collected 436.

Alabama concluded a perfect season by crushing Auburn 34-0 last Saturday. Its fifth straight shutout, and will face ninth-ranked Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans Jan. 1. Alabama is riding a 17-game unbeaten streak.

Texas vaulted over Louisiana State into third spot, 348 points to 335. Mississippi, Minnesota, Colorado, Michigan State, Arkansas and Utah State complete the top 10.

Ranger Sniper Extends Lead

Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers picked up two assists in a pair of weekend games and widened his lead atop the National Hockey League's scoring race to three points. He has a league-leading 25 assists which, with his 10 goals, give him 35 points.

High School Soccer In Night Experiment

By ROBIN JEFFREY

High school soccer takes a gamble here Wednesday.

At 7 p.m. Mt. View Hornets, defending high school champions, take on Vic High Tyees under the lights at Royal Athletic Park. This marks the first night high school game staged locally. If it's a financial success, soccer may become as big an attraction as basketball in local schools.

In the past the battle for high school soccer supremacy has always been an ill-attended, best-of-three affair, played in the late afternoon — after school was out. Early darkness hampered all such contests, some having to be abandoned or shorter time played.

This year it was decided to cut the series to one night game, in the hope of really "selling" soccer, not only to students but also to the general public.

GOOD CALIBRE

Don't be fooled by the impression that the calibre of soccer played by high school teams is not good. It is.

Roy St. Denis and Bill Monroe of Mt. View play for Gorge Hotel of the District League. Vic High's Jack Brueker is a member of Victoria United.

Ash Waldal, also, of Tyees, gave a fine performance in a one-game trial with United but would not sign with the city club as he did not wish to leave his juvenile team.

In Jim Clark and Ken Piercey, the Hornets have the two finest wing prospects in the minor ranks. Vic High, on the other hand, sports youthful lacrosse star Ranjit Dillon who is every bit as good at soccer as lacrosse.

Nearly every player on both teams has had offers to play for senior clubs. Most of these have been turned down, however, because of the desire to retain juvenile status.

MAGI DOUBTFUL

In their last meeting of the season Mt. View licked Tyees 4-1. The Vic High club took the first game of the year 5-1 while one other contest ended in a 2-2 deadlock. Both one-sided victories came while the losing club had key players out of action.

Wednesday's game should be a fine battle for both teams are reported at full strength. Jack Magi of the Vic High squad is the lone doubtful starter.

If tomorrow's experiment is successful an attempt will be made to play more matches at night next year. If the operation fails, however, high school soccer will fade once again into relative obscurity.

'Peg Interested In Joining IHL

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Winnipeg expressed interest Monday in joining the International Hockey League.

Parcy Downton of Winnipeg Enterprises Corporation told league directors here that his city would be interested in joining if the league went professional and if there was enough time allowed to build up material for league play.

Brewer Nudges Way Into Money Winners

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Gay Brewer Jr., who picked up $2,800 for his four-stroke victory in the West Palm Beach Open, crashed this week's listing of professional golfing's 10 top money winners.

And runner-up Arnold Palmer took a big step in his bid to overtake the money-winning pacesetter, South African Gary Player, who has quit the tournament trail for the season. Palmer won $1,900 in the West Palm Beach Open.

Player has winnings of $64,540 for 1961. Palmer now has $60,732.

Brewer, who wasn't among the top 10 last week, moved into the eighth spot, with total winnings of $29,249. Bob Rosburg, 10th last week, dropped off the list.

Doug Sanders, who won $306 in the West Palm Beach tournament for a 10th place finish, is third on the list with $57,069. Bill Casper Jr. is fourth with $37,766 and Jay Hebert fifth with $35,583.

Jewish Girl Held to Halt Marriage

NEW YORK (UPI)—A ruling was expected soon on a habeas corpus action to free a 20-year-old Jewish girl who has been in custody since last Tuesday because her parents objected to her romance with a Roman Catholic.

Linda Howard, a pretty, dark-eyed brunette, has been held as a wayward minor on a complaint by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Howard. The girl plans to marry Richard Schoof, a 21-year-old demolition worker of German descent.

Attorney Harry Heiler, hired by Schoof to protect the girl's interests, charged in Brooklyn Supreme Court Friday that he had been denied permission to see his client.

"The only crime this girl can be charged with is being in love," Heiler said.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A young Englishman will leave here Tuesday to continue an around-the-world hitch-hike which has brought him many strange adventures.

Edward Mott, 19, hasn't spent a cent so far on transportation costs. The next leg of his journey, to Japan, won't cost anything either—he's signed on as a "useful passenger."

"I don't pay them, they don't pay me," he said today. "It's a very good arrangement."

The freighter sails in a few days from Coos Bay, Ore., which means the Cambridge University student will have to go through Washington state where hitch-hiking is illegal.

This doesn't bother Mott, who has already been arrested for "loitering with intent to hitch-hike."

ON TURNPIKE

A New York State policeman picked him up on the Massachusetts turnpike but had to take him 20 miles along his way to get him to court, where an intrigued judge dismissed the charge.

Mott came here by a devious route through Germany, Newfoundland, Toronto, New York, Washington, Chicago, Denver, Salt Lake City, Las Vegas and Los Angeles.

He has hitched rides on ships, trucks, cars and even a private plane. In Denver he chanced upon a millionaire who treated him to five days in Las Vegas—which he didn't like.

"Everybody has too much money, nothing to do and everything was trying to get something for nothing," he says.

Mott's travelling garb consists of a kilt, a 50-pound rucksack emblazoned with a Union Jack and United Nations flag and a banner bearing the plea: "Round the World Hitch-Hike. Please Help. Stop."

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Why are the deserts so cool at night?

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Lillian Pawettiere, age 10, of Flushing, N.Y., for her question:

The desert lands of North America slide down the slopes of the Rockies to meet the Great Plains and, towards the southwest, spread their dusty carpets wide over the land. The desert roads take us straight across the lonely prairies where we glimpse maybe a ranch, a mine, a busy cowboy and his cattle. In the distance, purple-grey hills and rosy-brown mesas reach up their fingers to touch the vivid blue of the sky. Here the stars at night shine their brightest and the cloudless days sparkle with sunshine. The secret of the beautiful deserts is in the clean, clear sky overhead.

Thirsty winds and breezes blow this way and that way all around the world. They soak up moisture from the face of the sea, sip up the dew and dry out the soil and the damp forests. The moisture they steal turns to water vapor, an invisible gas which mingles with the air. When the air cools, some of its vapor is turned back again into water. It becomes a puff of misty droplets—and a cloud is born. Sooner or later, the clouds bring rain to replace the moisture which was stolen by the thirsty winds. But some places, of course, get more rain than others. In some places the rain does not bring enough water to replace the moisture stolen by the drying winds. These parched regions are the deserts. But sooner or later a little rain falls everywhere and showers fall even on the driest desert.

Rain comes from clouds and clouds form from vapor in the air. And the sparkling air above a desert is almost always very short of water vapor. This is why clouds are rare and the scenery glitters with dazzling sunshine. The stars blink their brightest because there are no misty clouds to dim them.

Keep Warmth on Ground

But clouds also act like blankets. During the day, the sun warms the earth and the seas, and after sunset, the clouds keep the warmth of the day from escaping.

A desert, then, is short of blankets to pull overhead at night. A summer day may be parched and scorching, but the heat escapes from the ground soon after the sun stops shining. The night cools fast, even after the hottest day. The dry air above the desert lets the sunbeams come down to warm the ground during the day. But it has no cozy clouds to blanket the ground at night, no way to save some of the daytime heat after the sun has set.

When rain comes to the desert, it usually comes with a deluge. Ragged grey clouds swarm over the sky and a downpour may last for several days and nights. If this happens during the warm season, the desert will get a few hot, humid nights. For the rain clouds will stop the daytime heat from escaping, just as they do everywhere else.

Andy sends a Hammond's Library World Atlas to Wendy Woodbridge, age 12, of Washington, Ill., for her question:

Which bird migrates the farthest?

So far as we know, the world's champion in this field is the Arctic tern. He is a small, swallow-tailed fellow, as pretty as a picture. His sleek plumage is soft blue-grey and white, accented with a red bill and a pair of red feet. His nesting grounds are far to the north and often inside the Arctic Circle. When winter comes to the northern hemisphere, he takes off with his family to islands around Antarctica, a journey of perhaps 11,000 miles.

Each year of his life, the Arctic tern may fly 22,000 miles back and forth between his winter and summer homes. This makes him the champion distance flyer of the migrating birds—and from his red bill to the tapering tips of his tail, the sturdy little champ is only seven inches long.

NEW YORK—Comedian Joe E. Lewis had one foot on the ground and one foot in the car when a Las Vegas friend started to drive away—and Joe E. was dragged several feet. Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

United Kingdom taxation authorities on whether this special dividend will be subject to tax in case of U.K. shareholders.

A. Bruce Robertson, president and chairman of B.C. Power Corporation, revealed this Monday in a letter to shareholders.

Shareholders were advised that a special general meeting would be held Dec. 8 to consider a bylaw calling for distribution of most of the $110,000,000 the government paid to B.C. Electric. This would amount to $18.70 a share to the 22,000 holders of the 4,700,000 common shares.

Mr. Robertson said the Dec. 8 meeting will be asked to adjourn the business to a suitable date, not later than one month after Dec. 8.

APPLY FOR RULING

He said shareholders in the United Kingdom, where about one-quarter of the issued shares are owned, applied to revenue authorities there for a ruling on whether the entire proposed payment would be subject to income tax there. This ruling had not been given up to Monday.

He said U.K. shareholders should not be asked to vote until this ruling is given, because if the payment should be subject to taxation, some might find it to their advantage to sell their shares before the payment is made.

The move came just a day before the B.C. courts will hear a request by the Royal Trust Company for an injunction preventing distribution of the money involved until a case the power corporation has launched in B.C. Supreme Court is settled.

B.C. Files Defence

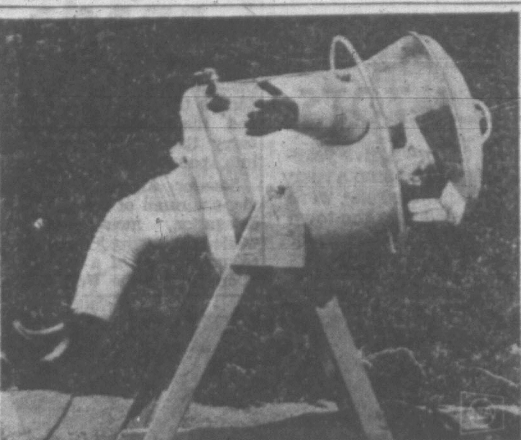

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Attorney-General's department Monday filed defence in British Columbia Supreme Court against an action by the B.C. Power Corporation in connection with the Social Credit government's expropriation of the giant B.C. Electric utility.

The statement says the legislative statute taking over the BCE is within the powers of the legislature and any question of the value of BCE shares should not be brought before the courts.

The power corporation, former parent of the BCE, is seeking Supreme Court declaration the expropriating act is invalid and says the compensation should be $225,000,000, not $110,000,000 as prescribed by the act.

No date has been set for hearing.

Four Men Arrested in Vancouver After Belmont Instruments Found

Nearly all the band instruments stolen from Belmont High School on Friday have been recovered in Vancouver.

Magistrate Named
Vancouver (CP) — Bernard M. Isman, a 54-year-old lawyer, Monday was appointed deputy police magistrate in Vancouver. He takes over the post vacated some months ago by deputy magistrate Harold Harkley.

Four men are being held by Vancouver police after the instruments were recovered in a mainland hotel room.

A trombone, three clarinets, two cornets, an alto saxophone, and a bass clarinet were taken during a $2,000 raid on the school.

One of the clarinets is the only instrument yet to be recovered.

The school band has received a number of offers of help since the theft of the instruments.

"We are most grateful for these offers of aid," bandmaster Donald Kerley said, "but we're even happier to hear of the recovery."

"MY BANK"
TO 2 MILLION CANADIANS

Who is our 3 millionth customer?

A housewife in Hamilton ... a youngster in Yarmouth ... a farmer in Fruitvale?

Frankly, we'd just be guessing. This year our total customers soared above the three-million mark. But which new customer in our network of 875 branches was the one between 2,999,999 and 3,000,001, we have no way of knowing.

But we do know our 3-millionth customer will probably use the B of M in many ways ... to save for the things he wants, to finance his automobile at low cost, to pay his household bills and to keep his valuables safe.

If he is a businessman, he might use Canada's first bank to finance his day-to-day operations, to pay his employees, to collect and remit money the world over ... if he is a farmer, "MY BANK" might be called upon to finance new trucks, modern barns and labour-saving electrical equipment.

He's very important to us, that 3-millionth customer. Never before in our long history have we been privileged to serve so many. We number with a good deal of pride those three million expressions of trust from people who call the Bank of Montreal "MY BANK".

Murphy Belts Planning Foes

Critics of town planning received a hammering from Coun. Stanley Murphy, one of three candidates contesting the reeveship of Saanich, at an election meeting Monday.

"Planning was introduced to protect you—you the rate-payers," the 45-year-old high school English teacher, who has served more than two years as chairman of council's planning committee, told 80 persons in Mt. Tolmie CCF Hall.

"Your planning department sees to it that roads are properly laid out, sufficient property set aside for schools and sites designated for eventual commercial development," he pointed out.

"Planning also aims at making your municipality more attractive."

The candidate strongly defended council's planning policies after Coun. Leslie Passmore and John Tisdalle, both running for reeve, advocated a cautious approach to planning.

GAUDY FRINGE?

Mr. Murphy noted that taxpayers' money would be used to develop Victoria College campus at Gordon Head.

"Thousands of your dollars, whether it comes from the government or from municipal grants, will be involved in that development," he said. "Do you want a gaudy commercial fringe around the university?"

He said council has taken steps to see that this does not happen.

BRAKES ON SIGNS

One of the effects of council planning policies, he said, was the passage of a sign bylaw to prevent the spread of "gaudy commercial signs on every street in Saanich."

(The sign bylaw is a hot issue in the campaign. It has been attacked by both Mr. Tisdalle and Reginald Sinkinson, a council candidate. They claim it is too severe.)

Coun. Passmore took the view that planning should be approached with caution, claiming the planning department is responsible for several mistakes in the past.

"I'm for planning," he said, "but planners are not always right."

MAIN ISSUE

Mr. Passmore again said he did not think his opponent, Mr. Tisdalle, could work in the interest of Saanich while serving as an MLA and representing a political party.

"I believe this is the most important issue in the election," he said in noting that another MLA is seeking to become mayor of Victoria.

Mr. Tisdalle replied there is "absolutely no conflict of interest between both levels of government."

He accused his opponents of trying to "needle" him "to get me off beat."

NEVER REFUSED

He told the meeting the government never refused to pay its full share for the reconstruction of Quadra, as claimed by council.

(This is a sore point with council which has been pressing the government to pay its full share in accordance with the Highways Act.)

He said government money which should have been spent on Quadra was used for improvements to Gorge Bridge.

NEVER CONSULTED

He also claimed Saanich planning department never consulted the highways department with regard to the layout of the new Town and Country shopping centre on Douglas.

This was later refuted by Coun. Passmore.

Several candidates contesting three vacant council seats lined up behind the candidates for reeve.

"I'm all for town planning as outlined by Mr. Murphy," said Capt. Harry Kingsley. "There has been little planning in the past."

The candidate also said he is "all for the B.C. government doing a little planning" to relieve taxpayers from the burden of school taxation.

The audience roared with laughter when Capt. Kingsley said the government should have no difficulty in finding money for schools.

"It certainly had enough money for the B.C. Electric and the purchase of the ferry service," he said.

Coun. Gregory Cook: "The

WORLD WAR 'DUD' BOMB EXPLODES, KILLS TOTS

MANILA, The Philippines (AP)—A five-year-old boy and a seven-year-old girl perched atop a rusty old bomb, a Second World War Japanese relic, were killed Monday when the bomb exploded in the town of Angeles, near Clark Air Force Base, north of here. Several other children nearby were hurt.

Canada Fears 'Rivalry in Space'

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Canada pointed Monday to a danger that the United States and the Soviet Union will carry their "earthly rivalry" into space warfare.

Senator Alfred J. Brooks, vice-chairman of the Canadian delegation, mentioned this while announcing his country's co-sponsorship of a U.S. resolution urging the United Nation to adopt a broad program for co-operation in exploring outer space.

Australia and Italy also are co-sponsors of the resolution that U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson declared would prevent the march of science from becoming a "runaway race into the unknown."

Brooks, addressing the 103-member UN political committee, said he was heartened by statements that neither the U.S. nor the Soviet Union intends a "selfish conquest" of space.

"Nevertheless, none of our countries can rest easy while nagging concern remains that the earthly rivalry of these two powers, and perhaps of other states, may yet be carried into the infinite reaches of the universe."

"The spectre of a titanic struggle for mastery of space fills the most complacent of us with foreboding for the future."

The four-country resolution proposed that the UN be made a clearing house for all information on outer space activities.

Bi-Racial Canada Needed To Preserve Confederation

TORONTO (CP)—Confederation will be saved only if Canada is strong enough to build a true Canadian nation, Jean-Louis Gagnon, vice-president and editor-in-chief of Le Nouveau Journal of Montreal, said today.

Discussing Quebec's separatist movement, the executive of Canada's newest daily newspaper said in a speech to the Canadian Club that Quebec is fighting for its identity just as English-speaking Canada is fighting to "save its integrity" from United States encroachment.

"We know what is the price one has to pay to be different," he said. "We have been told many times that to speak French and to maintain our cultural institutions of our own is a luxury for which we have to foot the bill."

"Are you ready to do the same? No doubt it would be cheaper to jump into the melting pot. To be a Canadian in America is becoming as much difficult and expensive as it is to remain a French-speaking Canadian in Canada.

"You will never make it if you do not take us in on your side."

"As it is, Confederation will be saved only if we are strong enough to build a true Canadian nation. It is for us to deal with separatism and to open our eyes to the reality of things. It is to you to realize that French-Canada might be the sole remaining barrier against what could be called the big take-over."

"If the task is too heavy, if we feel unable to resist the riches of the American way of life and if English-speaking Canada considers that French-Canada is asking too much by demanding the right to be its own self and to speak its language everywhere in this country, then we might as well call it a day."

"Nothing will save Confederation, not even the festivities of 1967 Confederation centenary."

"Coexistence is no substitute for national unity. If so many years after the birth of Confederation, we are still in search of a true Canadian nation, I say that nothing can save Confederation but a new deal, a new alliance, between French- and English-speaking Canada. For as long as the choice will be between isolation and assimilation, there will be no answer to our national problem."

BIRTH CONTROL PILLS APPROVED BY BRITAIN

LONDON (Reuters)—Birth control pills may be prescribed by doctors under Britain's national health service, Health Minister Enoch Powell told the House of Commons Monday.

Conservative legislator Nicholas Ridley said the pills could cost the service a large total if not controlled on medical grounds. He understood they could cost up to 17 shillings ($2.38) a month for each patient.

Powell said it was not for him, to indicate to doctors when they should decide for medical reasons to prescribe for their patients.

HERE AND THERE

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Who can interpret dreams?
A Times reader says he recurrently dreams of running down the steel steps of a fire escape from the top of a very tall building.

Just recently there was an alarming variation. A small boy was trotting down the steps behind him when he came to a gap in the steps and a terrible yawning void below.
"My problem," he said, "was that I knew I could jump over this gap by myself—but not if I carried the boy on my back. Unable to make a decision, I woke up."
"I still break out in a sweat when I think of it."

WANTED—An international chairman for the centennial celebrations of Victoria and Port Angeles next year.
"I need such a contact over here," says Mrs. Evelyn Tinkham, who is international chairman on the Port Angeles front.

"We must make this joint celebration as beneficial to both cities as possible."

In Victoria, Monday, Mrs. Tinkham presented a history of Port Angeles, by John McCallum and Lorraine Wilcox Ross, to Mayor Percy Scurrell at the City Hall.

Every weekday at 12.30 p.m. she broadcasts a commentary on life in Victoria and Port Angeles from radio station KOPN.

"Let's get going!" said Mrs. Tinkham as she boarded the steamer for home.

Our University School seems to be developing into a sort of United Nations. The current enrollment includes students from as far south as Buenos Aires, as far north as Whitehorse and Yellowknife, as far east as Indonesia—and a boy who flies in every term from Frankfurt, Germany.
Fifty per cent of the boarders come from the western United States.

My recent reference to the late Sir Thomas Beecham brought another lively anecdote from Basil Symonds of 919 Douglas.

Seems the maestro was rehearsing the Cincinnati Symphony when a phoney policeman entered and presented him with a summons for breaking the speed limit in his performance of the Star Spangled Banner.

To which Sir Thomas retorted:
"If I took it at the pace you do here I'd expect to get a parking ticket!"

Carl Newman of 955 Cloverdale has had many offers of builder's plates from scrapped steam locomotives since we mentioned his hobby in this column two weeks ago.
"The only trouble," says Carl, "is that most of them have a price tag attached. I've been asked as much as $75 for a single plate."

RESIGNATION from the B.C. Electric at year's end is announced by D. A. M. Patterson, solicitor and a senior executive of the company on Vancouver Island. Mr. Patterson is returning to private law practice, entering a partnership with the Victoria firm, Manzer, Wootton and Drake, with whom he was associated when he joined the B.C. Electric 21 years ago. A graduate of Victoria schools and UBC and an RCAF veteran, he is active in many community organizations, including the Canadian Club, United Services Institute and Chamber of Commerce.

New Laws Studied In Hunting Deaths

A rash of hunting accidents this year has sparked possibility of new B.C. laws.

"I have asked that coroners' inquests be reviewed to see what variations should be considered in the policy of my department," said Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

There have been four persons killed in Vancouver Island hunting accidents this year, latest on the weekend when an 11-year-old boy shot a 70-year-old man near Courtenay.

Five Hunters Home Safely

Five hunters reported lost in the bush in the Alberni Sunday returned safely or were found by search parties Monday.

Jack Falconer and Leo Sirkia were reported missing in the Grassy Mountain area about 10 miles southeast of Port Alberni Sunday at 9.30 p.m.

They walked out in the morning and reached Port Alberni about 12.30 p.m.

John Hogweide and Aytan McBurney, both of Alberni, were found at Bainbridge Lake near the China Creek road, nine miles from Port Alberni at 1 p.m. Monday after being reported missing at 6 p.m. Sunday.

Leon Clements of Port Alberni, was found Monday at 1.30 p.m. near the Franklin River Road, nine miles from home.

Civil Defence Training Starts Soon in Oak Bay

Man Threatens Leap to Death From Building

Taxi Driver Faces Charge

A 26-year-old city taxi driver was charged in city police court today with attempted suicide.

James Rigby, 705 Pandora, was arrested early this morning after police and firemen were called to the Toronto Dominion Bank at Douglas and Johnson, where a man was reported to be threatening to jump from the top of the 10-storey building.

Rigby stood calmly in the dock with his hands in the pockets of his black windbreaker as the charge was read this morning.

"TOO LATE"
His counsel, Alan Bigelow, asked the case be remanded without plea to Wednesday. He asked for the defendant to be released on bail.

Prosecutor Angus Smith said "the difficulty in cases like this is that by the time the defendant appears again it might be too late."

Magistrate William Ostler set bail at $250.

Government Prods PNR To Go Ahead

Transport Minister Earle Westwood said today the government is pressing the Pacific Northern Railway Company to go ahead with its project, but has not had any reply from Company officials.

He said he could still make no announcement about the fate of the scheme to build a 700-mile railway from Summit Lake to the Yukon border.

The PNR missed a Nov. 1 deadline by which it had been ordered to award contracts for clearing its first 100 miles of right-of-way.

LEGAL PROBLEMS

"We are pressing all we can for them to go ahead with the project, but we have had no further communication from Mr. Gore (PNR president Bernard Gore) or anyone," said Mr. Westwood.

The PNR, set up by associates of the late Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren, is understood to be holding back because it still may face a legal wrangle with the city of Prince Rupert.

Prince Rupert last year announced it was planning a lawsuit against the PNR, challenging its choice of route, which would bypass the coastal port and run straight north inland.

Go-Ahead to Co-Ordinator As Council Passes Budget

Approval of a budget for Oak Bay's first self-contained civil defence organization was given Monday by members of council.

In accordance with new provincial civil defence policy, the municipality has begun organization of its own CD unit to operate as part of the Greater Victoria target zone, a group of 11 south Vancouver Island communities.

Council passed a $1,992 budget to get the organization through the five months remaining in the federal fiscal year.

10% SHARE
Of this, Oak Bay's share is 10 per cent, or $200.

The civil defence committee recommended that for next year—the 1962-63 period—a budget of $3,105 be provided.

Co-ordinator Geoffrey White, municipal engineer who had civil defence training and practical experience, will advertise for volunteers, about 20 people originally.

He will need an administrative head, such as clerk-accountant, a chief of engineering services, a rescue chief, heads of fire and police services and wardens.

20 WARDENS

About 20 wardens will be needed eventually, all with a knowledge of firefighting and rescue.

"These will be the people who will have most to do with the public," Mr. White said.

He hopes to start training heads of services about the end of January, probably through courses offered by the provincial organization.

Training headquarters at Oak Bay will be two basement rooms used by the Red Cross and engineer's department at the municipal hall.

It is planned to provide basic uniforms and equipment for auxiliary police and firemen at these estimated costs:

For 12 firemen, $720.16; 12

Forced Layoff Upsets Reeve

Saanich Reeve George Chatterton today described as "impractical" a B.C. government ruling that municipalities must hire social welfare cases in order to qualify for financial assistance for their winter works program.

The ruling has forced Saanich to lay off 18 employees to make room for social welfare cases, he disclosed.

DISRUPTION

"The ruling has disrupted our winter works program, because some experienced men had to be discharged and replaced by unskilled workers," he said.

"I don't like a system which promotes the hiring and firing of men," he added.

He disclosed the federal government at one time had a similar ruling but dropped it when it saw the confusion and disruption it caused.

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION ON METERS?

Downtown merchants will be asked their opinions on short-term parking meters and operating meters during Friday night shopping hours.

City public works committee today decided to circulate a questionnaire on the two subjects.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgell, chairman, told the committee "we should have a 12-minute meter on both sides of every block in the commercial area for those people who just want to nip into a store to pick up something."

Ald. J. L. W. McLean raised the other question, contending meters should, logically, be kept in operation during night shopping hours to keep traffic circulating.

Committee decided it should have merchants' opinions before drafting recommendations to council.

SIU Seeking Talks On Black Ball Crews

A meeting between Premier Bennett or Labor Minister Peterson and Seafarers' International Union is sought to clarify the union's position in government purchase of Black Ball Ferries.

Rod Heinekey, assistant secretary-treasurer of the SIU on the coast, said he was waiting for reply to a letter he wrote the government two weeks ago.

He scored the "lack of common courtesy" by the government and Black Ball in failing to notify the union of the $7,000,000 deal.

"DICTATORSHIP"
"The only way the men knew anything was by reading the paper," he said. "It is straight dictatorship" on the part of the government, he charged.

The union position is that the seamen employed by Black Ball are still covered by a collective agreement, even though the government is now the owner of the ferry system.

"I've got 147 men out there who are quite concerned about the future," Mr. Heinekey told the Times.

WELFARE PLAN
Uppermost in their minds is the fate of a company-financed welfare plan that provides $45 a week when members are sick, life insurance, drugs and compassionate clause.

"This is a lot more important than wages. The members pay nothing. There is none like it in the country and the men are covered by the plan as long as they remain in the industry," the spokesman said.

Premier Bennett has said there would be no wage cuts, meaning under the SIU arrangement. Basic seamen's wages remain at $319 a month, or up to $34 higher than comparable jobs in the existing government ferry service.

The SIU is not certified to act for these government employees, although some 40 to 50 of them are members of the union.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.
All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve routine or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Gardeners Will Love You For This Little Gift . . .

By PENNY SAVER

Good afternoon to you, Sis:
How goes the battle of the Christmas shopping crowds? The streets are filled with hustling gift searchers, including myself, but isn't it exciting? One realizes the big day is almost here!

This next bit sounds out of season, I know, but I'll bet the gardener on your gift list would like to have it, just the same. Rust proof, stainless steel clippers that feature an attachment on the blades to hold roses (or any thorny stemmed flowers, for that matter) upright until you pull 'em by the thorns. Now, doesn't that sound like a good gift idea? The clippers come at $2.75.

Have you seen the butterfly replicas that have appeared, Sis? Made in England, they are plastic copies of Tortoise Shell, Red Admiral, Swallow Tail and Peacock butterflies and believe me they look almost real. A little suction-base makes it possible to attach them to vases, tiles, mirrors, lamp shades, or anywhere you would like to place a bit of the glamorous outdoors. Selling for $1 each they're packaged in plastic containers (ready for shipping) as gifts.

After surveying what is left of my Christmas decorations, I was more than happy to come across something new and inexpensive. Foil decorations that are packaged flat, for easy storage and yet unfold into lovely mobiles.

Selling for $1.50, they are available in green, blue, gold or red. They'll really add a holiday touch to your home decorations.

These ideas, I think, should be on your list for these ideas. So you'd better phone me. . . . Penny EV 2-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Calm, Cool, Collected Character Is a Blessing

Have you ever noticed that certain persons are soothing and restful? When you see them, everything seems to fall in place and tension leaves you. This does not mean that they are dull. They may be the gayest people, but they have an inner reserve and calm that indicates a mature and understanding adjustment to life which is a blessing to others. They are at peace with life even though they find it exciting, and when you're with them you feel as though you are "home again."

Of course, this feeling some folks give us may be due in part to the fact that we like the same things, have similar temperaments and approach life in the same way. However, this is not necessarily so.

It is interesting to note the correlation between personality and mannerisms. Generally speaking, nervous habits such as drumming on the table or chair arms, twitching, constantly crossing and uncrossing the legs, squirming, clapping and unclapping the hands, rubbing the head, scratching the nose and grimacing, indicate an unsettled state within.

This may be due to poor health, nervous tension, worry, a high-strung personality, some physical discomfort or emotional instability, or lack of self-confidence. Often these are habits which were formed in the past because of some such condition. The habit remains after the cause no longer exists. Such mannerisms not only use up loads of energy, but drive others crazy and detract from the charm and poise of a woman.

This is a vicious circle because such nervous habits do not lead to relaxation of the person who indulges in them. When you "go limp," or relax your muscles and sit quietly, it is restful to you. One of the best ways to relax emotionally, nervously and mentally, is to relax physically.

There are also many mannerisms which are typical of age. Some of these are due to changes in outlook, and others to physical changes which occur as the years pile up. Many of them are not necessary. They can make you look older than you are. You may have let some of these slip on up you.

If this is true, you may wish to have my leaflet, "Mannerisms of Age." Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 67 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

"SHE LOOKS OLD!" IS THAT WHAT THEY'RE SAYING ABOUT YOU?

No woman wants to look old, but so many do—because of dry skin caused by harsh weather, indoor heat, low-fat diets. That's why you should know about POND'S SKIN CREAM. This famous cream contains Allantoin—a substance that goes to work in just 10 minutes to repair skin robbed of natural moisture. Allantoin gently disperses lifeless surface cells . . . speeds penetration of Pond's rich moisturized lanolin to thirsty tissues far below. Almost overnight, dry lines, flakiness disappear . . . your skin looks soft, smooth, young again! Use POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM regularly. Buy it in the jar or tube, wherever cosmetics are sold. Advt.

SEW SIMPLE By Eunice Farmer

ELASTIC HOLDS SWEATER NECK IN SHAPE

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

"I thought perhaps your readers would enjoy knowing a little trick I use for keeping the necklines of sweaters in shape. I thread the small, round elastic on a large, blunt needle and insert it into the casing at the neckline. It will keep the neck of the sweater from stretching, and if not pulled too tight, it will not show. This can also be done in the bands of "bobby socks" that become stretched out of shape."

Please send all questions and suggestions to Sew Simple, in care of this paper. I regret that letters from my readers cannot be answered personally due to the tremendous quantity of mail sent to Sew Simple. Letters of the most general interest will be answered first, please be patient and save all the columns for future reference in case your question is not answered in time for your current garment.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Wedding March Blues!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our only daughter is to be married in three weeks and my husband is the problem. We have planned a church wedding and our minister said my husband must walk up the aisle with the bride. I bought Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" for our record player, and we have practised "marching" every night. My husband goes to pieces every time I put the record on. He gets weak in the knees and cries and it just tears me apart to see a grown man sob-like that. He says he can't do it. I love our daughter, too, and she is marrying a fine young man, so I can't figure out what my husband is all broken up about.

Would it be proper for me to go down the aisle on the other side of the bride to help hold my husband up?

BRIDE'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Sorry, but you can't go up the aisle with the bride "to help hold your husband up." I suggest you quit rehearsing. When the big moment comes, your husband will walk up the aisle with flying colors. (If he's crying now, wait until he gets the bills.)

DEAR ABBY: May I shake your hand for advising young wives to believe their husbands no matter how tall the tale sounds. Here is my story: My husband used to come home at 4 a.m. and say he'd been at his "club." I never really believed him because I knew the lights went off automatically at 1 a.m. One night I had to find out for myself, so I left my baby alone and walked to the club in the bitter cold. I saw his car parked nearby, so I waited and watched. About 3:45 a.m. his friends started coming out of the club. He was with them. One man said, "Jack, will you drive me home?" My husband replied, "Sure!"

I ran all the way home and crawled into bed like an icicle, feeling so ashamed for having doubted him. Yes, Abby, he was telling me the truth. Know

While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks

While shepherds watched their flocks by night,
All seated on the ground,
The angels of the Lord came down,
And glory shone around.
"Fear not," said he, for mighty dread
Had seized their troubled mind;
"Glad tidings of great joy I bring
To you and all mankind.
"To you, in David's town, this day
Is born of David's line;
A Saviour, who is Christ the Lord;
And this shall be the sign.
"The heavenly Babe you there shall find
Lain on a manger bed;
The Virgin veiled in swathing bands,
And in a manger laid."

Thus spake the seraph; and forthwith
Appeared a shining throng
Of angels, praising God, who thus Addressed their joyful song:
"All glory be to God on high,
And to the earth be peace;
Goodwill henceforth, from heaven to men,
Begin and never cease."

It Came Upon The Midnight Clear

It came upon the midnight clear,<
That glorious song of old,
From angels bending near the earth,
To touch their harps of gold:
"Peace on the earth, goodwill to men,
From heaven's all-gracious King!"
The world in solemn silence lay,
To hear the angels sing.
Still through the cloven skies they come,
With peaceful wings unfurled;
And still their heavenly music floats
O'er all the weary world:
Above its sad and lowly plains
They bend on hovering wing,
And ever o'er its babel-sounds
The blessed angels sing.

Yet with the woes of sin and strife
The world has suffered long;
Beneath the angel-strain have rolled
Two thousand years of wrong;
And men, at war with men, hear not
The words of peace they bring:
O hush the noise, ye men of strife,
And hear the angels sing.
And ye, beneath life's crushing load,
Whose forms are bending low,
Who toil along the arduous way,
With painful steps and slow:
Look now, for glad and joyous hours
God's messengers will bring:
O rest beside the weary road,
And hear the angels sing.
For lo! The days are hastening on,
By prophet-bards foretold,
When with the ever circling years
Come around the age of gold;
When peace shall over all the earth
Its ancient splendors fling,
And the whole world send back the song
Which now the angels sing.

O Come, All Ye Faithful

O come all ye faithful,
Joyful and triumphant,
Come ye, O come ye to Bethlehem;
Come and behold Him,
Born the King of Angels.

Refrain

O come, let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,
Christ the Lord.

True God of true God,
Light of light eternal,
Lo, He abhors not the Virgin's womb.

Son of the Father,
Begotten, not created,
Sing choirs of angels,
Sing in exultation,
Sing, ye, all glory
Sing, ye, all glory
To God in the highest!

Yea, Lord we hail Thee,
Born this happy morning;
Jesus, to Thee be glory given,
Word of the Father,
Now in flesh appearing.

Salute before the altar bending,
Watching long in hope and fear,
Suddenly the Lord descending,
In His temple shall appear:
Come and worship,
Worship Christ, the newborn King.

Salute before the altar bending,
Watching long in hope and fear,
Suddenly the Lord descending,
In His temple shall appear:
Come and worship,
Worship Christ, the newborn King.

Hark, The Herald Angels Sing

Hark! The herald angels sing,
"Glory to the newborn King,
Peace on earth and mercy mild,
God and sinners reconciled."
Joyful, all ye nations rise,
Join the triumph of the skies;
With angelic hosts proclaim,
"Christ is born in Bethlehem."

Refrain

Hark! The herald angels sing,
"Glory to the newborn King,
Christ, by highest heaven adored,
Christ, the everlasting Lord,
Late in time behold Him come,
Laf in time behold Him come,
Offspring of a Virgin's womb,
Veiled in flesh the Godhead see;
Hail the incarnate Deity,
Pleased as man with man to dwell,
Jesus, our Emmanuel."

Hail the heaven-born Prince of Peace,
Hail the Sun of Righteousness,
Light and life to all He brings,
Risen with healing in His wings,
Mild He lays His glory by,
Born that man no more may die,
Born to raise the sons of earth,
Born to give them second birth.

Angels From The Realms of Glory

Angels from the realms of glory,
Wing your flight o'er all the earth;
Ye who sang creation's story
Now proclaim Messiah's birth;
Come and worship,
Worship Christ, the newborn King.

Shepherds in the field abiding,
Watching o'er your flocks by night,
God with man is now residing,
Yonder shines the infant light;
Come and worship,
Worship Christ, the newborn King.

Sages, leave your contemplations,
Brighter visions beam afar;
See the great desire of nations,
Ye have seen His natal star:
Come and worship,
Worship Christ, the newborn King.

1— Silent Night

Silent night! Holy night!
All is calm, all is bright—
Round yon virgin mother and child,
Holy Infant so tender and mild;
Sleep in heavenly peace,
Sleep in heavenly peace.

Silent night! Holy night!
Shepherds quake at the sight!
Glories stream from heaven afar,
Heavenly hosts sing Alleluia,
Christ, the Saviour is born!
Christ, the Saviour is born!

Silent night! Holy night!
Son of God, love's pure light,
Radiant beams from Thy holy face,
With the dawn of redeeming grace,
Jesus, Lord at Thy birth,
Jesus, Lord at Thy birth.

2— The First Nowel

The first Nowel the angels did say,
Was to certain poor shepherds in fields as they lay;
In fields where they lay keeping their sheep,
On a cold winter's night, that was so deep.

Refrain:

Nowel, Nowel, Nowel,
Born is the King of Israel.

They looked up and saw a star
Shining in the East beyond them far,
And to the earth it gave great light,
And so it continued both day and night.

And by the light of that same star
Three wise men came from country far;
To seek for a King was their intent,
And to follow the star wherever it went.

This star drew nigh to the northwest,
O'er Bethlehem it took its rest,
And there it did both stop and stay,
Right over the place where Jesus lay.

Then entered in those wise men three,
Full reverently upon their knee,
And offered there in his presence
Their gold and myrrh and frankincense.

Then let us all with one accord
Sing praises to our heavenly Lord;
That hath made heaven and earth of nought,
And with His blood mankind hath bought.

3— Adeste Fidelis

(Latin Text—English, No. 20)

Adeste, fideles,
Laeti, triumphantes,
Venite, venite in Bethlehem;
Natum videte
Regem angelorum.

Venite adoremus, Ave
adoremus,
Venite adoremus Dominum.
Lumen de lumine
Gestant; puellae viscera:
Deum verum,
Gentium non factum.
Centis nunc lo
Chorus angelorum,
Cantat nunc aule coelestium:
Gloria!

In excelsis Deo!
Ergo qui natus
Die hodie,
Jesus, tibi sit gloria;
Patris aeterni
Verbum caro factum.

4— O Little Town Of Bethlehem

O little town of Bethlehem,
How still we see thee lie,
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep
The silent stars go by;
Yet in thy dark streets shineth
The everlasting light,
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee tonight.

For Christ is born of Mary;
And gather'd all above,
While mortals sleep, the angels keep
Their watch of wandering love.
O morning stars, together
Proclaim the holy birth
And praises sing of God the King,
And peace to men on earth.

How silently, how silently,
The wondrous gift is given,
So God imparts to human hearts
The blessings of His heaven.
No ear may hear His coming,
But in this world of sin,
Where meek souls will receive him still
The dear Christ enters in.

O Holy Child of Bethlehem,
Descend to us, we pray;
Cast out our sin and enter in;
Be born in us today.
We hear the Christmas angels
The great glad tidings tell;
O come to us, abide with us,
Our Lord, Emmanuel.

O little town of Bethlehem,
How still we see thee lie,
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep
The silent stars go by;
Yet in thy dark streets shineth
The everlasting light,
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee tonight.

For Christ is born of Mary;

Christians, Awake!

Christians, awake, salute the happy morn
Whereon the Saviour of the world was born:
Rise to adore the mystery of love,
Which hosts of angels chanted from above:
With them the joyful tidings first begun,
Of God incarnate and the Virgin's Son.

Then to the watchful shepherds it was told,
Who heard the angelic herald's voice,
"Behold,
"I bring good tidings of a Saviour's birth!
"To you and all the nations upon the earth!
"This day hath God fulfilled His promised word.
"This day is born a Saviour, Christ the Lord.

To Bethlehem straight the enlightened shepherds run,
To see the wonders God had wrought for man:
Then to their flocks, still praising God, return,
And their glad hearts with holy rapture burn:
To all the joyful tidings they proclaim—
The first apostles of the Saviour's name.
Oh, may we keep and ponder in our mind
God's wondrous love in saving lost mankind:
Trace we the Babe, who has retrieved our loss.

From the poor manger to the bitter cross:
Tread in His steps, assisted by His grace,
Till man's first heavenly state again takes place.
Then may we hope the angelic hosts among,
To join, redeemed, a glad, triumphant throng:
He that was born upon this joyful day
Around us all His glory shall display.
Saved by His love, incessant we shall sing
Eternal praise to heaven's almighty King.

Brightest And Best

Brightest and best of the sons of the morn,
Dawn on our darkness and lend us Thine aid:
Star of the East, horizon adorning,
Guide where our infant Redeemer is laid.
Cold on His cradle the dewdrops are shining,
Low lies His head with the beasts of the stall:
Angels adore Him in slumber reclining—
Maker and Monarch and Saviour of all!

Say, shall we yield Him, in costly devotion,
Odors of Eden and offerings divine?
Gems of the mountains and pearls of the ocean,
Myrrh from the forest and gold from the mine?
Vainly we offer each ample oblation,
Vainly with gifts would his favor secure:
Richer by far is the heart's adoration:
Dearest to God are the prayers of the poor.

Brightest and best of the sons of the morn,
Dawn on our darkness and lend us Thine aid:
Star of the East, the horizon adorning,
Guide where our infant Redeemer is laid!

What Child Is This?

(Tune—Greensleeves)

What child is this, who, laid to rest,
On Mary's lap is sleeping?
Whom angels greet with anthems sweet,
While shepherds watch are keeping.

Refrain:

This, this is Christ the King,
Whom shepherds guard and angels sing,
Haste, haste to bring him in,
The Babe, the son of Mary.

Why lie he in such mean estate?
Where ox and ass are feeding?
Good Christian, fear for sinners here,
The angel word is pleading.

So bring him hither, gold and myrrh,
Come peasant, king and own him,
The King of Kings salvation brings,
Let loving hearts enthrone him.

We Three Kings

We three kings of Orient are,
Bearing gifts, we traverse afar,
Field and fountain, moor and mountain,
Following yonder star.

Refrain:

O star of wonder, star of night,
Star with royal beauty bright,
Westward leading, still proceeding,
Guide us to the perfect light.

Solo (Melodist)

Born a King of Bethlehem's plain,
Could I bring to crown Him again,
King forever, ceasing never,
Over us all to reign.

Solo (Carpenter)

Frankincense to offer have,
Incense owns a Deity's name;
Prayer and Praise, all men raising,
Worship Him, God most high.

Solo (Balthazar)

Myrrh is mine, its bitter perfume
Breathes a life of gathering gloom;
Sorrowing, sighing, bleeding, dying,
Sealed in the stone-cold tomb.

Glorious now behold Him arise,
King and God and Sacrifice;
Alleluia, alleluia,
Faith to heaven replies.

Infant Holy

Infant holy, infant lowly,
For His bed, a cattle stall;
Oxen lowing, little knowing
Christ the Babe is Lord of all.
Swift are winging, angels singing,
Nowels tracing, tidings bringing,
Christ the Babe is Lord of all.

Flocks were sleeping, shepherds keeping
Vigil till the morning new
Saw the glory, heard the story,
Tidings of a rosy true.
Thus rejoicing, free from sorrow,
Praises voicing, greet the morn,
Christ the Babe is Lord of all.

Refrain:

God Rest You Merry, Gentlemen

God rest you merry, gentlemen,
Let nothing you dismay.
Remember Christ your Saviour
Was born upon this day.
To save us all from Satan's power
When we were gone astray.

Refrain:

O tidings of comfort and joy, comfort and joy,
O tidings of comfort and joy.

In Bethlehem, in Jewry,
This blessed Babe was born,
And laid within a manger:
Upon this blessed morn:
The which His mother Mary
Did nothing take in scorn.

From God our Heavenly Father,
A blessed angel came,
And unto certain shepherds
Brought tidings of the same:
How that in Bethlehem was born
The Son of God by name.

"Fear not, then," said the angel,
"Let nothing you affright,
This day is born a Saviour
Of a pure Virgin bright,
To free all those who trust in Him,
From Satan's power and might."

The shepherds, at those tidings,
Rejoiced much in mind,
And left their flocks a-feeding
In tempest, storm and wind:
And went to Bethlehem straightway
The Son of God to find.

And when they came to Bethlehem,
Where our dear Saviour lay,
They found Him in a manger,
Where oxen feed on hay.
His mother, Mary, kneeling down,
Unto the Lord did pray.

Now to the Lord sing praises,
All you within this place,
And with true love and brotherhood
Each other now embrace:
This holy tide of Christmas
All other doth efface.

White Christmas

I'm dreaming of a white Christmas
Just like the ones I used to know
Where the tree tops glisten
And children listen to hear sleigh bells in the snow.

I'm dreaming of a white Christmas
With every Christmas card I write
"May your days be merry and bright,
And may all your Christmases be white."

Jingle Bells

Dashing! thro' the snow,
In a one-horse open sleigh;
Over the fields we go,
Laughing all the way;
Bells on bobtail ring,
Making spirits bright;
What fun it is to ride and sing a sleighing song tonight!

Chorus:
Jingle bells, jingle bells,
Jingle all the way!
Oh, what fun it is to ride,
In a one-horse open sleigh!

A day or two ago,
I thought I'd take a ride;
And soon Miss Fannie Bright was seated
by my side;
The horse was lean and lank,
Misfortune seemed his lot,
He got into a drifted bank and then we got lost!

Now the ground is white,
Go it while you're young;
Take the girls tonight,
And sing this sleighing song:
Just get a bobtail nag,
Two-forty for his speed,
Then hitch him to an open sleigh and crack! you'll take the lead.

Good King Wenceslas

Good King Wenceslas looked out
On the Feast of Stephen,
When the snow lay round about,
Deep and crisp and even;
Brightly shone the moon that night,
Tho' the frost was cruel,
When a poor man came in sight,
Gath'ring winter fuel.

"Hither, page and stand by me,
If you know'st it, telling,
Yonder peasant, who is he?
Where and what his dwelling?"
"Sire, he lives a good league hence,
Right against the forest fence,
He st. Arose forsworn."

"Bring me flesh and bring me wine,
Bring me the plumeless hind:
Thou and I will see him dine,
When we bear him thither."
Page and monarch forth they went,
Forth they went together,
Through the rude wind's wild lament,
And the bitter weather.

"Sir, the night is darker now,
And the wind blows stronger;
Falls my heart, I know not how,
I can go no longer."
"Mark my footsteps, good my page;
Tread thou in them boldly;
Thou shalt find the winter's rage
Peeves the snow less coldly."

A Visit From St. Nicholas

'Twas the night before Christmas, and all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse.
The stockings were hung by the chimney with care,
In the hope that St. Nicholas soon would be there.

When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter,
I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter.
When what to my wondering eyes should appear,
But a miniature sleigh and eight tiny reindeer.

With a little old driver so lively and quick,
I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick.
More rapid than eagles his coursers they came,
And he whistled and shouted and called them by name.

"Now Dasher! Now Dancer! Now Prancer and Vixen!
On, Comet! On Cupid! On Donner and Blitzen!
To the top of the porch, to the top of the wall,
Now dash away, dash away, dash away all!"

And then in a twinkling I heard on the roof
The prancing and pawing of each little hoof.
As I drew in my head and was turning around,
Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound.

His eyes how they twinkled! His dimples how merry!
His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry.
He was chubby and plump—a right jolly old elf,
And he laughed when I saw him in spite of myself.

He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work,
And filled all the stockings, then turned with a jerk,
And laying a finger aside of his nose,
And giving a nod, up the chimney he rose.

He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle,
And away they all flew like the down of a thistle.
But I heard him exclaim, ere he drove out of sight:
"Happy Christmas to all, and to all a good-night!"

Here We Come A-Wassailing

Here we come a-wassailing among the leaves so green;
Here we come a-wandering, so fair to be seen.

Refrain

Love and joy come to you and to you
our wassail, too,
And God bless you and send you a
Happy New Year!

We are not daily beggars that beg from door to door;
But we are neighbor's children whom you have seen before.

We have little purses made of matching leather skin;
We want a little stipend to line it
Well within.

God bless the master of this house,
livestock the mistress, too!
And all the little children that round the table go.

Santa Claus Is Coming To Town

Oh, you'd better not pull,
Better not shout,
Better not cry,
Tm telling you why,
Santa Claus is coming to town.

He's making a list,
Checking it twice,
Going to find out
Who's naughty or nice,
Santa Claus is coming to town.

He sees you when you're sleeping,
He knows if you're awake,
He knows if you've been bad or good,
So be good—for goodness sake!

Oh, you'd better watch out,
Better not pull,
Better not cry,
Tm telling you why,
Santa Claus is coming to town.

TCA, CPA 'Single Front' Aim on World Air Routes

VANCOUVER (CP)—Transport Minister Balcer said Monday Canada's world air policy is aimed at providing a "single front" for Trans-Canada Air Lines and Canadian Pacific Airlines in dealing with other countries.

But the minister also said that just how this will be accomplished has not yet been decided—although it would hinge on economic principles aimed at ensuring the financial health of Canadian civil aviation.

The minister's statement implied support for some method of merging or uniting of the publicly-owned TCA and the privately-owned CPA on international air routes.

BROAD HINT

In a speech at the opening of the new TCA air maintenance base here, Mr. Balcer hinted broadly that on world routes TCA and CPA should work together, not in competition.

"It is my opinion that, given the competition now existing in world aviation, the best interest of TCA and CPA will not be served if, in addition to competing with foreign carriers, they are competing with each other," he said.

"If fighting is to take place—and I use this word in the competitive economic sense—I believe that the efforts of our two carriers should not be devoted to fighting each other."

"Those efforts should be aimed at the foreign competition which must be successfully countered if Canada's international airlines are to survive."

This, said the minister, is one of the primary objectives of Canada's air policy.

"I will continue to seek the development of a policy which will be fair and reasonable and in the interest of Canadian aviation, and which will provide a single front in dealing with other countries."

SOLUTION NOT FOUND

"The solution to this difficulty has not yet been found but, in seeking it, it would be folly to disregard the economic principles that must be observed, if Canadian civil aviation is to achieve and maintain financial health."

Mr. Balcer also said Canada is seeking more direct services by both Canadian and United States air carriers between major cities in the two countries—not the transborder hops from Canada to the U.S. which Canadian carriers have now.

"In this day of frequent travel and long-range aircraft, the air traveller should not have to suffer the inconvenience of a short transborder hop, followed by a change of planes," said Mr. Balcer.

Villa 'Blitz' Assured Of Objective

Another appeal is over the top.

Duplicating the success of the United Appeal, the Kiwanis Villa "blitz" Monday night collected $23,500, with more expected.

The club had set a goal of $25,000 to be allotted to the completion of Kiwanis Villa and the addition of a dining room and recreational area to the facilities.

STUDENTS THANKED

W. W. Sinclair, chairman of the campaign, said that funds are still to be received by mail from canvassers in outlying areas, and the $25,000 objective was assured.

"I wish to thank all the canvassers," Mr. Sinclair said, "especially the high school students. They were terrific."

A total of 1,800 volunteers canvassed for the club between 6:30 and 7:30 p.m.

Two Canadians On Church Body

NEW DELHI (CP)—Two Canadian church leaders were named Monday to the central committee of the World Council of Churches meeting here.

They are Most Rev. William L. Wright of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Anglican Archbishop of Algoma and metropolitan of the ecclesiastical province of Ontario, and Rev. Ernest E. Long of Toronto, secretary of the United Church of Canada.

The central committee is an interim governing body which will control the affairs of the interdenominational world council until its next general assembly six years from now.

Big Electric Firms Sued for Billions

NEW YORK (AP)—Utilities companies across the United States filed suits in federal court Monday against 21 manufacturers of electrical equipment, contending they have been overcharged because of price rigging.

Spokesmen for the 44 complaining utilities said the suits could amount to billions of dollars.

More Open Sunday Favored in Ontario

By The Canadian Press

Voters in 14 Ontario cities and a host of smaller centres elected civic administrations Monday.

The trend to a more open

Sunday of sports and movies continued although several cities turned them down. Fluoridation appeared on at least six ballot papers but was approved only in the town of Whitby.

City mayors re-elected were A. McLean Haig of Belleville, Garnet Newkirk of Chatham, Joseph Meizinger of Kitchener, Franklin J. Miller of Niagara Falls, James L. McIntyre of Sault Ste. Marie, C. H. Meier of Stratford and W. A. Downing of Woodstock.

Of 12 communities with Sunday sport on the ballot, eight approved the issue, including the cities of Chatham, Sudbury and Sarnia, Belleville and Waterloo were among those opposed.

Sunday movies found favor in 19 of 31 communities, including Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie, Chatham and Fort William. Cities opposed were Sarnia, Belleville and Guelph.

Fort William was the only city with fluoridation on the ballot and it was rejected heavily.

Ex-Mau Mau Admits Guilt At MRA Meet

PETROPOLIS, Brazil (AP)—An ex-Mau Mau leader, attending a Moral Re-Armament conference here, shouldered responsibility Monday for the slaying of white men in Kenya.

He declared: "I am directly responsible for the extermination of white men; the killings were carried out by 230 men under my command. I myself killed some of them. My heart was full of hate and bitterness."

But, said Nashshon Ngare, he met a man he identified as Col. A. Knight, leader of the prison camp in Kenya where Ngare was interned for five years.

"I know now that there is a more effective way to bring true liberty to Africa. This new offensive and superior ideology is Moral Re-Armament."

Ngare is a delegate to an MRA conference being held in this mountain resort.

Trujillos Get Revenge

SANTA DOMINGO (AP)—Only two of the men accused of plotting the assassination of Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo of the Dominican Republic last May 30 are known to be alive.

This became known Sunday on the heels of an official report saying six of the accused were slaughtered Nov. 18 in what may have been a last act of revenge by surviving Trujillos before they fled the country.

Reliable sources say one of the two plotters survived, Luis Amiami Tio, had hidden out since the assassination at the home of Tabara Alvarez, now secretary of health and welfare.

The other is Antonino Imbert, believed to be in the northern city of Santiago. Neither will talk to reporters.

Three of the accused plotters are known to have been liquidated. They were Gen. Juan Tomas Diaz, Lieut. Armando Garcia Guerrero and Antonio de la Masa. A fourth is presumed to be dead. He was Gen. Jose Rene Roman, secretary of state for the armed forces at the time of his arrest. He never was seen after being taken into custody.

More than 20 others suspected of taking part in the plot also were liquidated.

HAGGIS CUTS BAMBOO CURTAIN

PEKING (Reuters)—The annual St. Andrew's Ball, one of the highlights of Western diplomatic life here, was declared a success Monday after a week of worry about whether the haggis would arrive in time.

The haggis, a traditional delicacy ordered from Scotland several months ago, reached Peking only a few hours before the ball Saturday night.

Scottish members of the diplomatic community arranged a special car to rush it from the nearby port at Tientsin in time for the celebrations.

The haggis had been held up aboard the cargo ship Pakhoi by a series of misfortunes, including typhoons, mechanical trouble, insurance and technical problems.

Arctic Survey Ship To Be Built in B.C.

OTTAWA (CP)—The mines and technical surveys department announced Monday it has awarded a $155,000 contract for construction of a ship specially designed for hydrographic work in the Arctic.

The 60-foot steel-hulled ship will be built by Star Shipyard Limited of New Westminster, B.C., and is due for completion early in 1962.

It will be constructed so it can remain in the Arctic for four-year periods without major overhaul.

The ship will be named the Richardson after Sir John Richardson, who explored northwestern Canadian waters in 1826. The Richardson will be based at Tuktoyaktuk during winter months and will operate in the area of the Amundsen Gulf and the Dolphin and Union Straits in the summer.

DIVORCES

Divorces were granted in B.C. Supreme Court Monday to:

Ferne Mary Ratcliffe, 2237 Estevan Avenue, Oak Bay, from John Collinge Ratcliffe, 2 Bushby Street, Victoria; married in Vancouver, 1955.

Neena-Lorraine Oke, 3138 Somerset Street, Victoria, from Wesley George Oke, Cranbrook, B.C.; married in Alberni, 1948.

John Albert Hodgins, R.R. 2, Courtenay, from Mary Hodgins, Fort Francis, Ont.; married at Courtenay, 1943.

TAXPAYER VIEWS PARALYZING EFFECTS OF SAANICH "ZONING"

Saanich's Zoning Laws have now reached the critical stage where commercial paralysis has settled upon the land, constituting a serious menace to the future progress of the Municipality. They are so completely restrictive that it is practically impossible for anyone to engage in commercial enterprise. It actually is literally impossible to purchase one lot "Zoned Commercial." They are non-existent in the words of any real estate dealer.

For our financial security and for the progress of Saanich we must release ourselves from the strangling effects of the present Zoning restrictions which are leading us down the road to poverty, higher taxes, loss of payrolls, and lower property values.

It is well known by any thinking man that commercial enterprise is most important and wherever it settles it is the right place for it and resolves itself in public convenience and higher property values to the benefit financially of all who are near it without artificial meddling.

We need miles of commercial properties to meet the demands of our expanding residential areas. We need the tax revenues to lower our residential tax rate, and we need the convenience of closer shopping. We definitely do not need our municipality to plan us to ultimate unemployment and to the Social Assistance class as we are heading for.

Our vast Saanich has a potential far above Victoria and its population will soon far outstrip it; yet we are forced to spend the biggest part of every dollar in Victoria, contributing to Victoria's taxes at the expense of our own. I am told that out of a total of Four Million Dollars in tax revenues collected, there is less than one-eighth contributed to it by Saanich industry. This is a colossal disservice against our management which points to lack of interest in municipal public affairs in the past. It means in proportion to any other city average we are saddling our residential taxpayers with nearly Two Million Dollars in extra taxes which otherwise would have been contributed to by industry had we given them half a chance.

There are many "Platforms" offered us by applicants for council positions, none of which is of such vital necessity as that offered by zealous Robert V. Osler in his slogan "Introducing Industry." This young Council applicant dedicated to this worthy cause could be the means of saving Saanich homeowners many thousands of dollars in taxes which automatically will provide us with payrolls so vital to our financial security. Let us make sure we get him into office. He will have to compete with Victoria's City Council who are well aware of the tax revenues of industry having recently set up a committee to attract it.

We need men with good common sense on our Council and it is utterly folly to elect a Reeve who cannot give his full time and study to this important position. Any business would fail under such circumstances.

An Industrial Boom will bring progress and financial security for ourselves and our heritage such as we have never seen before ONLY when we cut the bonds that are strangling us and prove we are again Free Men.

Car Prize Means Trip 'Back Home'

A 76-year-old Victoria woman who doesn't drive won the main prize, a 1962 car, at the Klansmen Giant Bingo Monday night.

Although won by Mrs. Annie Heath, 444 Ker, the prize was accepted by her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Adelman, 3320 Whittier.

Mr. Adelman said the car will be sold and the money used to send Mrs. Heath back to England, which she hasn't seen since leaving the country as a little girl.

The Adelmans already own a car.

Vehicle was the main prize in the contest which attracted nearly 8,000 people to Memorial Arena and offered a total of $7,000 in prizes.

The car had been stolen from behind Olson Motors but was recovered, undamaged, on Lampson Street in Esquimalt about 2 p.m. Monday.

Mrs. Mabel Peck, 1023 Arcadia, won a $1,000 cash prize, and winners of $300 each were Rup Lal, 2820 Blackwood; Karen Curry, 2717 Prior; A. G. Hobbs, 2895 Heath, and A. J. Wooten, 88 Moss.

Prizes of $150 were won by: A. J. Rigby, 408 Dallas; Mrs. L. V. Shaffer, 2618 Sooke Road; Mrs. A. McNab, 824 Bewdley, and F. M. Bell, 1039 McClure.

Prizes of $100 were won by: Mrs. F. Morley, 5 Erskine; R. G. Wilson, 538 Vincent; Mrs. D. M. Pye, 1609 Myrtle, and T. W. Roe, 3126 Balfour.

B.C. Buys Apples, But Wants Baskets

HAMILTON (CP)—A district apple grower has sold 4,000 six-quart baskets of McIntosh apples for shipment to British Columbia.

But it is not the Ontario apples that are in demand in British Columbia, it's the baskets they come in.

"Ontario is one of the few provinces in which apples are sold in six-quart baskets," Joe Gould, manager of Ella Riva Farms, Lynden said.

Jailed Douk Says Leaders Force Acts of Terrorism

Kootenay 'Civil War'

NELSON (CP)—A white-haired Sons of Freedom Douk-hobor, sentenced Monday to five years' prison for unlawful possession of explosives, says "top people" among his sect force the "little people" into acts of violence.

"The top people gather money and have a good time while the poor bomb and burn," confessed terrorist Mike Bayoff, 51, told a Sun reporter.

Bayoff said he was "a little kid" in a highly-organized crime gang which gave orders for outrages on wordless signals.

He said he turned his back on a lifetime of terrorism to confess his own role and implicate alleged associates because he could no longer live with himself if he continued to hide his and any other Freedomite's evil.

More than 40 suspected terrorists have been arrested since Bayoff made his confession Nov. 2 and appealed to them to give themselves up. County Court Judge Eric Dawson, who sentenced him Monday, said he had given great assistance to police.

Bayoff said the hoodlums who have plagued the Kootenay district of southeast British Columbia with bombings and arson must be "whipped or wiped out" if peace is ever to come to the area.

LEFT LEGACY

His parents and the people of the Freedomite shacktown of Krestova gave him the legacy of bombing, burning, and nude parading, he said. He knew nothing much else in life and passed on the same legacy to his daughter Patsy, now 24, and the mother of four.

Patsy has broken away from the sect and now lives in Creston, 40 miles southeast of here.

"Everyone around is involved in bombings, burnings and nude parading so it seems natural," Bayoff said.

Cantor Films Banned

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—The government has banned imports of motion pictures in which Eddie Cantor appears, officials said today. They said Cantor's films were blacklisted here because of his alleged pro-Zionist activities.

India Ready To Fight

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru said today that India would go to war if necessary to end "Chinese aggression" on Indian territory.

He told legislators that if the Chinese Communists move across the line dividing India from Tibet "we shall resist and repel them."

He made the statement after reporting that the Chinese Communists in a Dec. 2 letter threatened to send troops into India's northeast frontier agency.

Nehru said the Chinese rejected Indian charges of new Chinese incursions into Indian territory which were contained in an October letter from India to Communist China.

Saying India would if necessary go to war to stop Chinese aggression, Nehru told the house: "I do not rule out war. How can I?"

He added India would prefer peaceful means, but also had to consider other methods "short of war" and then war itself.

"My whole soul reacts against war," he said.

"WE SHALL RESIST"

Asked what India would do if the Chinese Communists moved across the line which divides India from Communist-controlled Tibet, he replied: "Obviously, if that is what is done, we shall resist and repel them."

He said that the Chinese in their reply to India's October note counter-charged that India had increased military activities in the border areas, established new checkpoints, permitted Indian planes to violate Chinese air space and ordered Chinese patrols not to come within about 12½ miles of the Chinese side of the border.

He said the Chinese letter contained "a hint that if our military activities continue they may have to take steps for defence by sending some troops across the McMahon line."

GOA PROTEST

Meanwhile, the Indian government charged Portugal with "aggressive manoeuvres" on the frontier of the Portuguese enclave of Goa.

A spokesman for the external affairs ministry said Indian troops were ordered to "areas threatened by aggressive manoeuvres" of Portuguese forces as a precautionary measure. He said Portugal had concentrated troops "to overawe and intimidate residents of Goa and their compatriots across the border."

An influential Indian newspaper said the "situation may well arise" soon in which Indian troops will attempt to oust the Portuguese from the Goa enclave.

Adlai Won't Run

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Adlai E. Stevenson announced today that he will not run for the U.S. Senate next year.

PHONE ROBOTS WENT ON AND ON

LONDON (CP)—Two telephone robots talked to each other for hours recently without coming to any understanding.

It all began, says the general post office's monthly, The Telephonist, when an electricity substation "somewhere in the provinces" broke down.

The first robot's job when this happens is to dial operator and say: "There is a fault at this power station. Please send repair men."

When the fault developed, the robot alertly dialed O for operator. Nobody had told him the operator's number has been changed to 100.

So all he got was the second robot saying: "You no longer dial O for operator. Please replace your receiver and dial 100."

"For all I know they went on and on like that for hours," said The Telephonist's editor.

"Like statesmen at a peace conference—and with about the same effect."

Citizens Flee Capital in Panic

ELISABETHVILLE—Widespread fighting broke out between United Nations forces and Katanga Province troops in this Congo city today and many people fled the city in panic.

Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba, ranking Katanga official in the absence of President Moise Tshombe, charged the UN started the shooting and declared, "Katanga will fight and defend itself."

Kimba listed nine wounded so far on Katanga's side but said he did not know the extent of UN casualties.

The UN said two white mercenaries were killed by Indian troops in dispersing a Katanga force found lying in ambush outside headquarters of the United Nations. There were other casualties on both sides, the UN said.

The sound of mortar and other firing from several directions started a panic exodus from this capital of the secessionist province.

Contrary to UN reports that all Katangan ministers also had fled, Kimba held a press conference with all ministers present.

CHARGES SNEAK PLAN

Just before shooting started, Brian Urquhart, special UN political adviser, charged a Katanga battle plan for a sneak attack had been uncovered and that fighting was inevitable.

Urquhart said Katanga troops had been discovered advancing through thick bush toward the UN-held airport. He charged this was a "final act of bad faith."

It was announced in Leopoldville, the central Congo capital, that Acting UN Secretary-General U Thant has given Sture Linner, the UN Congo chief, a "carte blanche" to deal with the situation in Katanga.

Kimba told his press conference "United Nations troops opened fire at 1.45 p.m. with heavy weapons against the lightly armed Katanga army."

Panic broke out in the streets. Some Negroes ran from the town. Others headed for the railroad station.

Auto drivers careened through the streets sounding their horns.

Heavy shooting could be heard from outside the telegraph office. Teletype operators fled and foreign newspapermen had to type out their own dispatches.

Throughout the morning heavily armed crack Katangan troops had toured Elisabethville in armored vehicles.

There are four UN strongpoints in the area: The airport, where UN troops are firmly dug in; the UN headquarters, which is also the Indian camp; the Swedish camp and the Lido Hotel.

REINFORCEMENTS

It was believed that 300 additional Swedish troops arrived here Monday night. They were originally to be reinforcements for Swedish troops due for rotation but now those due to pull out will be kept on.

The firing later stopped and Elisabethville showed signs of slowly coming back to life again after the first shock of the afternoon fighting.

Kimba said: "Unless the United Nations modify immediately its attitude toward Katanga, we will consider ourselves in a state of war."

Kennedy Invited To Moscow?

ROME (Reuters)—The pro-Communist Rome newspaper Paese Sera reports from London that Soviet Premier Khrushchev has invited President Kennedy to Moscow.

The newspaper says the American president wanted to meet British Prime Minister Macmillan before giving a definite reply to the Soviet premier's invitation.

The newspaper's London correspondent says: "This is the significance of Monday night's sudden announcement" that the American and British leaders will meet in Bermuda later this month. (See story, page 5.)

Khrushchev's invitation was reported passed on to Kennedy by Alexei Adzhubei, Khrushchev's son-in-law and editor of the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia, who interviewed him last month.

WANTS OUT

Irish supreme commander of the United Nations forces in The Congo, Gen. Sean McKeown has asked UN headquarters in New York to release him from his post Dec. 31. McKeown who left Dublin for Leopoldville today said his tour of duty expires at the end of the year but that he would stay until a replacement had been found.

U.S. Dams Asked on Columbia

PORTLAND (AP)—Bonneville Power Administrator Charles F. Luce said today the next Congress should authorize a new set of federal dams for the Columbia Basin.

The need is urgent, he said, and will be especially so should Canada fail to ratify the treaty for Columbia River development.

If the treaty is not authorized, he told a meeting of Portland-area customers of Bonneville, alternatives must be authorized at once to take up the slack. Luce said Pacific northwest power needs will double in the next 10 years, meaning "We have to add as much generation in the next 10 years as we have in the past 70."

He said that although the House in the last Congress rejected power generating installation in the new reactor at the Hanford works, the Bonneville administration will continue a push to get it. He said he did not know just what kind of effort would be made but "We hope to find a combination that will make it go."

Orphan Boys Taken From Protestants

MONTREAL (CP)—Two Roman Catholic teen-aged orphan boys, placed with non-Catholic families last September, have been ordered to return to the care of the Quebec government's social welfare branch here.

Steve Catinoglou, 16, and his 14-year-old brother Michel were placed separately in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Francois Ligetti and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dubois.

The families were notified Monday by Real Bastien, head of the provincial social welfare branch here, that the boys were being recalled. He said the Social Welfare Act prevents the placing of children with families of a different religion.

The action came in the wake of an Ontario case where the court ruled that a non-Catholic couple did not have to give up a Roman Catholic youngster they had raised almost from infancy.

Four Die in Flames

KENORA, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Bertha Loxanger and three of her children died while they slept when their house 10 miles north of her went up in flames early today.

They Refuse To Deal With Refuse

By JOHN MIKA

City public works committee today daintily disposed of a garbage problem sent to it by city parks committee—by shoving it into the wastebasket.

The problem involves residents of outside areas, where there is no civic collection, bringing their kitchen garbage into the city in neatly wrapped bundles and depositing them in street litter bins.

Parks committee, at the suggestion of Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson, asked public works committee to study the possibility of banning the practice through a bylaw and "prosecuting offenders."

Public works committee boggled at the thought of police being "staked out" around city trash cans to pinch the "garbage-leggers."

"If we made a bylaw stopping people from putting garbage in trash bins, we would be come the laughing-stock of the country," warned Ald. Michael Griffin.

"It would be pretty difficult to identify whether an offender came from Oak Bay, Saanich or Esquimalt," pointed out Ald. J. L. W. McLean. "Anyway it's better that they put garbage in the cans than litter up the streets."

"Not if his parcel of garbage was stamped by the customs men at the city border," quipped city engineer J. C. Garnett.

The idea was scrapped by a vote of laughter.

BEWARE GARBAGE-LEGGERS

Border-crossing garbage dumpers are causing concern in city council, but it appears nothing much can be done about non-residents who sneak up on "keep city clean" cans and fill them with household disposables. Posed Times photo suggests disguise might be used by offenders.

Russ Says U.S. Stirs Trouble

Vote Loser Won't Quit

MANILA (UPI)—President Carlos P. Garcia ignored an appeal today by a ranking member of his own Nacionalist party that he concede defeat in the recent Philippine presidential election.

The appeal was made by Rep. Emilio Cortez to "ease political tension" in the Philippines. It called on Garcia to admit defeat to President-elect Diosdado Macapagal, who won over Garcia by more than 600,000 votes.

Huk Rebels Hunted

MANILA (UPI)—The Philippine Constabulary today dispatched a 1,200-man force to two northern Luzon provinces in a drive against reappearing Communist. Huk guerrillas who have killed at least six persons in the last six days.

JFK to Visit S. America

WASHINGTON (AP)—President and Mrs. Kennedy will visit Venezuela and Colombia Dec. 16-17 to dramatize his Alliance for Progress program for social and economic development of the Western Hemisphere.

The White House announced the trip—long expected—and said that Kennedy "hopes to visit other parts of Latin America in the future."

Economic Upturn To Continue

PARIS (AP)—Canada's economic upturn is expected to continue despite efforts to reduce imports of capital from abroad, according to a report released today by the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development.

The report, on the second of 20 economic surveys on OECD countries planned over the next nine months, said the strong business recovery in the United States should have a major influence on Canada.

Employment and exports should rise, the balance of trade should continue to improve, and the decline in the exchange rate of the Canadian dollar should continue to have a favorable influence, by making it less costly on the international market, the report said.

CHILDREN OF INDIA

Downtown 'Drop' Arranged

As a convenience to Children of India Fund contributors, the Times has arranged to have donations accepted at a downtown "drop."

Through the courtesy of the Bank of Montreal, donations may be left at the main branch at the corner of Yates and Douglas during business hours.

This is in response to enquiries from people who found it difficult to come to the Times offices at 2631 Douglas, and for the convenience of shoppers.

Mailed donations should still be sent directly to the Times, not to the Bank of Montreal.

CLOTHING DONATED

Although the object of the Times campaign is specifically funds to provide food for Indian children, Victorians have responded in hundreds to the parallel appeal for used warm clothing.

Mrs. Eric Dowell and her work group at 1117 Wharf planned on sending their first shipment to the Unitarian Service Committee in January but their plans were changed.

Since the drive opened Nov. 20, over 1,000 pounds of clothing has been sent in and the first shipment left Victoria Monday.

Mrs. Dowell said clothing should be warm "because their winter is just starting" and should have at least six months' wear left.

Mrs. Dowell had a word for the ladies. Don't send in your shoes, women in Korea and India have much wider feet. Infants', children and men's shoes, however are more than welcome.
